

DATE OF PRIMARIES FIXED FOR FIRST DAY OF MARCH

The Time Limit For Candidates to Enter the Race Expires Feb. 1.

AN EARNEST MEETING HELD

By the Republican City Committee and Important Matters Considered.

PROPOSED REGISTRATION BILL

Read to the Committee—It Extends the Registration Law for Second-Class Cities to Cities of a Certain Population.

The political pot which has been simmering for several weeks began to boil in dead earnest last night, and from now until March 1 there will be no letup in the efforts of both municipal and county candidates to land the nominations for the several offices to which they aspire.

When Chairman Geo. H. Owen called the meeting of the Republican city committee to order at city hall last night there was not only a very large percentage of the members of that body present, but nearly all the candidates for city and township offices were also in attendance.

It was announced that the first matter to be considered would be the selection of a date for holding the city primary, and Criss McConnell, Leroy Orr and George E. Davidson were appointed to confer with the candidates with a view of ascertaining their wishes in the matter. The committee was also instructed to recommend the date on which the entry of candidates' names should close. It was almost unanimously decided by the candidates that March 1 should be nomination day, and after the committee had selected Saturday, February 1, as the time limit for entries, it so reported to the body. The report was concurred in and a few of the candidates retired.

A considerable amount of discussion was indulged in with reference to the manner in which the names should be placed upon the municipal ticket. It was finally decided to observe the old rule of placing the name of the person who first signified his intention of being a candidate by depositing his assessment with the clerk of the committee, at the head of the list for that particular office. In order to better regulate this system in the future a motion was passed providing that no candidate's name would be received hereafter until the date for holding the primary had been decided upon by the committee.

Secretary Betz, who is a member of the committee appointed some time ago to endeavor to secure registration for East Liverpool, read a bill which has been prepared, and which it is proposed to have passed at the present session of the state legislature. The bill is as follows:

Provided, further, that the provisions of said section 2926 and all other sections of the statutes of the state of Ohio concerning and regulating the registration of electors and the holding of elections and voting in cities of the second class in said state, be and the same are hereby extended to and made applicable to any city or cities in said state having at the last federal census a population of —, and that in such city or cities has heretofore been made under the provisions of the registration laws of said state now in force therein, deputy state supervisors of elections for the counties in which said cities are located, shall immediately on the effect of this act proceed to appoint a secretary, registrars of elections, judges, clerks of elections and such other clerks, officers and agents as are now provided for by the registration laws of said state applicable to a general registration of electors in cities of the second class in said state, and appoint times and places for such registration, and provide suitable rooms, furniture, blanks and all other things now authorized to be provided for the registration of the electors in said cities of the second class in said state, and make all the needful rules and regulations, and furnish all needed ballot boxes, ballots, blanks, papers and all such other materials and appoint all such assistants, employees and officers as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of said statutes as

to elections in said cities of the second class in said state and make the same applicable to a city or cities having the population aforesaid in said state, and in all respects enforce the laws governing the same, so that all laws now in force applicable to the registration of electors in cities of the second class in said state and the way and manner of voting at any general or special election in said state shall be and the same hereby are extended to and made and declared to be in full force and effect as to any city or cities in said state having a population of —; provided further, that on Thursday in the fourth week, Thursday in the third week, Friday and Saturday in the second week next before the day of the general election in November next, a general registration of electors in said city or cities

SHORTAGE OF GAS DUE TO A BREAK

HIGH PRESSURE BURST AN OHIO VALLEY MAIN.

The Embarrassment Was Only Temporary, Causing Consumers Little Inconvenience.

High pressure caused a serious break in the high pressure main of the Ohio Valley Gas Co., at 5 o'clock last evening, two miles from pump station No. 2, located in Greene county, Pa. The gas commenced to become low in this city about 7 o'clock, but owing to rapid work on the part of the officials of the company, gas was turned into another main, running around the break and this city. Supt. G. A. Groglode, of the Ohio Valley Gas Co., located in this city, said this morning that the line was blown up by the high pressure, causing almost a complete loss of gas. This is the first serious break this company have had to contend with this season. Another break occurred in the mains near Cameron, W. Va., later in the evening, but necessary repairs were made on the line this morning.

M'KINLEY MEETING

Grand Memorial Service at the Opera House Planned For Next Wednesday Afternoon.

It was learned this afternoon that the opera house can be had for the afternoon at merely nominal expense, and there appears to be no good reason why the meeting should not be held.

It is proposed to have the city government and every trade, industry and profession, as well as all the churches, Catholic and Protestant, and all political parties in the city represented at the meeting, and a large and earnest gathering can be safely predicted. As one of the main objects of the meeting will be to arouse interest in the McKinley memorial fund, it is suggested that all who propose to contribute to that worthy cause come prepared. It is also suggested that all individuals and organizations who propose to contribute withhold their contributions until the meeting is held, in order that all the cash collected or prospective may be reported at that time, to make it plain to the rest of Ohio that East Liverpool will do her whole duty in honoring the memory of the greatest and best statesman in our recent history.

A movement was started in this city today the object of which is to hold a McKinley memorial service in the opera house on the afternoon of January 29, as suggested in the recent proclamation of Governor Nash. The idea originated with Rev. C. G. Jordan, of the First Presbyterian church, and he this morning held conferences with several prominent business men concerning the movement.

Officials of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, manufacturing potters and a number of merchants were seen during the day, all agreeing that the movement is a worthy one. While the plan is still in its infancy, detailed arrangements will probably be completed by this evening. Several prominent speakers will be asked to address the meeting, and among the number will doubtless be those who were the late president's intimate friends.

A VERY HOT TIME ON A FROSTY NIGHT

COON HUNTERS, STARTING FOR WOODS, TURNED BACK.

Their Ammunition, Consisting of Roman Candles, Exploded—No body Injured.

The party of coon hunters that started in a sled last evening for Sprucevale had a "hot time" for a certainty, despite the chilly condition of the atmosphere.

Instead of taking guns the hunters bought a supply of roman candles, with which they expected to scare the coons to death. The fireworks were placed in the straw in the bed of the sled and when about a mile beyond Calcutta, "Swatty" Foster accidentally set fire to the straw.

In an instant a terrific bombardment followed and the scramble in the sled was worse. In less than 10 seconds every occupant had rolled, fallen or jumped out into the snow, while great streams of fire shot all about them. The ammunition was all burned up and the distressed hunters were forced to return home.

Mayor Davidson did the driving and was given the use of a "cushion" seat, which he presently found to consist of a folded lap robe in the middle of which was a large and juicy pie. Fortunately the pie and his honor's trousers sustained the only injury that resulted from the hunt.

PEOPLE DON'T ENTHUSE

MORMON APOSTLES FIND EAST LIVERPOOL UNRESPONSIVE.

As the Result of Several Months' Labor, They Have No Converts And Can't Hire a Hall.

Two Mormon elders who have been in this city for some time have failed to secure even one convert to their faith. Such was the statement of one of the elders to a reporter yesterday afternoon.

As previously stated in this paper exclusively, Elder W. H. Wilcox, of Farmington, Utah, has been here since last September, but last month additional help was sent him in the person of Elder Thomas M. Woodland, of Oenida, Idaho. These men are now stopping at a house on Monroe street, but are not meeting with much success with their work.

One of the "apostles" stated yesterday afternoon that they proposed to rent a hall in which meetings would be held, but no person would rent them one. There are about 10 Mormon believers in this city and in the entire state there are just 105 believers, according to the latest reports received by the missionaries here.

FOUND DEAD IN BED AT BOARDING HOUSE

FERDINAND DOLL, AN AGED GERMAN, EXPIRES SUDDENLY.

Pneumonia Thought to Have Been the Cause of Death—Was Alone When End Came.

Alone in an upstairs room, with no one about him that realized the serious nature of his illness, Ferdinand Doll, an aged and well-known German, died shortly before 10 o'clock this morning at the Anderson boarding house, Market and Third streets.

For several weeks he had been ailing, though not until a few days ago did his illness become serious. It is thought that pneumonia was the cause of death.

He did not go down stairs this morning and Mrs. Anderson visited his room twice to look after him. On her second visit she found him dead.

Ferdinand Doll was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1847, and emigrated to East Liverpool 9 years ago, where he has continuously resided. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Doll, lives at 152 Sophia street, and from her home the funeral will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Mr. Doll left no children, but left two stepsons, John Heisler, foreman of the Vordrey warehouse, who lives with his mother, and George Heisler, of Sixth street, who is foreman of the decorating department in the National. Mr. Doll had a small amount of property and carried $500 insurance. His remains will be interred in Riverview cemetery.

CERTAIN JUDGMENTS

Against Grocer Mushrush Which Court Is Asked to Declare Void.

Lisbon, January 23.—(Special)—Wm. F. Davidson and the National Biscuit company have claims against Grocer J. C. Mushrush, of East Liverpool. Mushrush, it is claimed, confessed judgment in Squire McCarroll's court in favor of T. Stewart & Co. to the amount of $286.82, and Mrs. Theodore Butler to the amount of $273.

Davidson and the biscuit company as plaintiffs ask that these payments be declared void.

The owner of the wharfbat, Gus Martindill, is taking advantage of the dullness of river traffic by working on the extensive improvements to his property. The living apartments on the second floor have been nicely painted. One coat of paint has been put on the exterior and another will be given.

A Beautiful Present.

The Odd Fellows of East Liverpool have further beautified their room in the Odd Fellows' home by putting in a beautiful brass bedstead, springs and mattress. The superintendent occupies the East Liverpool room, and there is where it was put. It is the finest brass bedstead we ever saw, says the Bundle of Sticks, the organ of the order.

A NEW SURVEY VIA SMITH'S FERRY

REVIVAL OF THE PROPOSED B. & O. CANTON LINE PROJECT.

The C. & P. To Be Used for P. & W. Trains Part Way And New Line the Rest.

Pittsburg, January 23.—Detailed surveys for a complete change in the line of the Pittsburg & Western from Pittsburg to Warwick are now before the management of the Baltimore & Ohio. The new route will be over the Fort Wayne tracks from Allegheny to Rochester; over the Cleveland & Pittsburg tracks to a point near Smith's Ferry and then over a new line from Smith's Ferry to Warwick. The new line will follow the Little Beaver river and the north fork of the Little Beaver as far as practicable. It will pass through Canton.

The acquirement of the Pittsburg & Western, along with the Baltimore & Ohio, by the Pennsylvania has been the means of making this new route possible. It has been known for some time past that the Pittsburg and Western is to use the new Fort Wayne passenger station promised to Allegheny and the other improvements to be made when the Fort Wayne tracks through that city are elevated.

Youngstown and several other important cities would be taken from the main line by the improvement. In mileage the new route will about equal that of the Ft. Wayne. The distance from Pittsburg to Orrville on the Ft. Wayne is about 124 miles, while the length of the new Pittsburg & Western to Warwick will be about 113 miles. Orrville and Warwick are near together.

LEASE OF A MINE

Andrew Roley's Suit Against George M. Aten, of Wellsville, for $5,000.

Lisbon, Jan. 23. (Special)—Andrew Roley, of Wellsville, has sued George M. Aten, of that city, for $5,000 damages, and asks an injunction restraining Aten from ejecting Roley from a mine leased by Aten to the plaintiff.

The petition states that on January 12, 1900, Roley leased the vein of coal, known as creek vein No. 3, for five years, with privilege of re-leasing for five years more. Shortly after, Aten, the plaintiff says, began to charge him with dishonesty, and attempted to injure his business, and compel him to leave the premises. A suit has been pending in Squire Riley's court, brought by Aten under the forcible detention act, to compel Roley to vacate. The hearing is set for January 24, at 9 a. m. Roley claims he has kept his contract.

A MARKED SUCCESS

In the Rummage Sale Now in Progress — Contributions Solicited.

The rummage sale continues with marked success, both at the Broadway and Sixth street stores reporting a large number of customers.

The ladies of the Hospital association desire that the public should hand in its donations as soon as possible, without waiting to be solicited. They would like very much an assortment of books upon any subject, but especially school books dealing with the common branches.

Under the Provisions of a Bill Which the Ohio Senate Has Passed.

AN IMPORTANT AMENDMENT

Was Added to the Measure by Senator Connell Before It Passed.

A COLUMBIANA COUNTY MAN

Who Is Doing Time in the Penitentiary Gets in Trouble—Legislative Jottings And Other Gossip of the State Capital.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 23.—Senator Connell, of Lisbon, offered an important amendment to the bill introduced by Senator Chamberlin, of Elyria, Wednesday afternoon, fixing penalties for an assault on a president, vice president, cabinet officer, governor and lieutenant governors. The bill as originally drawn only applied to governors and lieutenant governors of Ohio, but the amendment of Senator Connell increases its scope so as to extend protection to governors and lieutenant governors of any state, territory or possession of the United States, who may visit Ohio. The measure was passed as amended by Senator Connell Wednesday afternoon. There is not the slightest doubt that it will be enacted into a law by the action of the house.

The act makes death the penalty in case the assault results fatally, and 20 years' imprisonment in the penitentiary if the result is otherwise. One consideration among many others which prompted Senator Connell to submit the amendment was to place a safeguard about Governor Taft, of the Philippines, who is now en route to Cincinnati, his former home.

The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, in advertising to the makeup of the senate committees, made special reference to Senator Connell in his capacity of chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, commenting upon the rarity of placing a first term in such an important position and predicting that he would become a leader upon the floor of the senate.

John Henry, known as "Slippery John," who is now serving a term of four years in the penitentiary for a crime committed in Columbiana county, is again in trouble behind the walls. A woman, whom Henry declared was his sister, was detected with six prison-made shirts in her possession, which she said had been given to her by Henry. She had concealed the shirts in a basket. John was asked to give an explanation, but he could give none. The shirts had evidently been taken from one of the state shops, and as Henry seemed to have been responsible for their disappearance, he was punished by having good time deducted from his record. This will be restored if he is not reported for the same offense within a certain period. Henry hails from East Rochester. He was convicted of the theft of a quantity of clover seed. This is his third term.

A suspected case of arson was reported to the state fire marshal from Leetonia recently, but an investigation by Deputy Hart, of Akron, failed to develop enough evidence to warrant carrying the matter into court.

At the Ohio State university this spring Miss Sara Swaney, of East Liverpool, who is a candidate for a degree, will write a thesis on "The Use of Animals as Literary Material." Ervin G. Bailey, of Damascus, who is a candidate for the degree of mechanical engineer, will write a thesis on "Comparative Road Tests of Consolidative Locomotives."

The taxation committee, of which Mr. Crist is a member, has got down to work. Taxation bills have been piling in since Monday, and all are referred to the taxation committee. For a time, at least, this committee will be the busiest in the house. Mr. Crist will organize the committee on public printing, of which he is chairman, in a day or two.

The Time Limit For Candidates

AN EARNEST MEETING HELD

By the Republican City Committee and Important Matters Considered.

PROPOSED REGISTRATION BILL

Read to the Committee—It Extends the Registration Law for Second-Class Cities to Cities of a Certain Population.

The political pot which has been simmering for several weeks began to boil in dead earnest last night, and from now until March 1 there will be no letup in the efforts of both municipal and county candidates to land the nominations for the several offices to which they aspire.

When Chairman Geo. H. Owen called the meeting of the Republican city committee to order at city hall last night there was not only a very large percentage of the members of that body present, but nearly all the candidates for city and township offices were also in attendance.

It was announced that the first matter to be considered would be the selection of a date for holding the city
primary, and Criss McConnell, Leroy Orr and George E. Davidson were appointed to confer with the candidates with a view of ascertaining their wishes in the matter. The committee was also instructed to recommend the date on which the entry of candidates names should close. It was almost unanimously decided by the committee that March 1 should be nomination day, and after the committee had selected Saturday, February 1, as the time limit for entries, it so reported to the body. The report was concurred in and a few of the candidates retired.

A considerable amount of discussion was indulged in with reference to the manner in which the names should be placed upon the municipal ticket.
It was finally decided to observe the old rule of placing the name of the person who first signified his intention of being a candidate by depositing his assessment with the clerk of the committee, at the head of the list for that particular office. In order to better regulate this system in the future
a motion was passed providing that no candidate's name would be received hereafter until the date for holding the primary had been decided upon by the committee.

Secretary Betz, who is a member of the committee appointed some time ago to endeavor to secure registration for East Liverpool, read a bill which has been prepared, and which it is proposed to have passed at the present session of the state legislature. The bill is as follows:

Provided, further, that the provisions of said section 2926 and all other sections of the statutes of the

ing the registration of electors and the judges, clerks of elections and such other clerks, officers and agents as are now provided for by the registration laws of said state applicable to a general registration of electors in cities of the second class in said state, and appoint times and places for such registration, and provide suitable rooms, furniture, blanks and all other things now authorized to be provided for the registration of the electors in said cities of the second class in said

state, and make all the needful rules and regulations, and furnish all needed ballot boxes, ballots, blanks, papers and all such other materials and appoint all such assistants, employees and officers as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of said statutes as to elections in said cities of the second class in said state and make the same applicable to a city or cities

having the population aforesaid in said state, and in all respects enforce the laws governing the same, so that all laws now in force applicable to the registration of electors in cities of the second class in said state and the way and manner of voting at any general or special election in said state

FOUND DEAD IN BED AT BOARDING HOUSE

FERDINAND DOLL, AN AGED GER- MAN, EXPIRES SUDDENLY.

Pneumonia Thought to Have Been the Cause of Death—Was Alone
When End Came.

Alone in an upstairs room, with no
one about him that realized the serious nature of his illness, Ferdinand Doll, an aged and well-known German, died shortly before 10 o'clock this morning at the Anderson boarding house, Market and Third streets.

For several weeks he had been ailing, though not until a few days ago did his illness become serious. It is thought that pneumonia was the cause of death.

He did not go down stairs this morning and Mrs. Anderson visited his room twice to look after him. On her second visit she found him dead.

Ferdinand Doll was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1847, and emigrated to East Liverpool 9 years ago,
where he has continuously resided.
His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Doll, lives at 152 Sophia street, and from her home the funeral will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Mr. Doll left no children, but left two stepsons, John Heisler, foreman of the Vredey warehouse, who lives with his mother, and George Heisler, of Sixth street, who is foreman of the decorating department in the National. Mr. Doll had a small amount of property and carried $500 insurance. His remains will be interred in Riverview cemetery.

Theodore Butler to the amount of $273.

The C. & P. To Be Used for P. & W.
Trains Part Way And New Line the Rest.

Pittsburg, January 23.—Detailed surveys for a complete change in the line of the Pittsburg & Western from Pittsburg to Warwick are now before the management of the Baltimore & Ohio. The new route will be over the Fort Wayne tracks from Allegheny to Rochester; over the Cleveland & Pittsburg tracks to a point near Smith's Ferry and then over a new line from Smith's Ferry to Warwick.
The new line will follow the Little Beaver river and the north fork of the Little Beaver as far as practicable. It will pass through Canton.

The acquirement of the Pittsburg &
Western, along with the Baltimore & Ohio, by the Pennsylvania has been the means of making this new route possible. It has been known for some time past that the Pittsburg and Western is to use the new Fort Wayne passenger station promised to Allegheny and the other improvements to be made when the Fort Wayne tracks through that city are elevated.

Youngstown and several other important cities would be taken from the main line by the improvement. In mileage the new route will about equal that of the Ft. Wayne. The distance from Pittsburg to Orrville on the Ft. Wayne is about 124 miles, while the length of the new Pittsburg & Western to Warwick will be about 113 miles. Orrville and Warwick are near together.

Andrew Roley's Suit Against George
M. Aten, of Wellsville, for $5,000.

Lisbon, Jan. 23. (Special)—Andrew Roley, of Wellsville, has sued George
M. Aten, of that city, for $5,000 damages, and asks an injunction restrain-ing Aten from ejecting Roley from a mine leased by Aten to the plaintiff.

The petition states that on January 12, 1900, Roley leased the vein of coal, known as creek vein No. 3, for five years, with privilege of re-leasing for five years more. Shortly after, Aten, the plaintiff says, began to charge him with dishonesty, and attempted to injure his business, and compel him to leave the premises. A suit has been pending in Squire Riley's court, brought by Aten under the forcible detention act, to compel Roley to vacate. The hearing is set for January 24, at 9 a.
m. Roley claims he has kept his contract.

Under the Provisions of a Bill Which the Ohio Senate Has Passed.

AN IMPORTANT AMENDMENT

Was Added to the Measure by Senator Connell Before
It Passed.

A COLUMBIANA COUNTY MAN

Who is Doing Time in the Penitentiary Gets in Trouble—Legislative Jottings And Other Gossip of the State Capital.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 23.—Senator
Connell, of Lisbon, offered an important amendment to the bill introduced by Senator Chamberlin, of Elyria, Wednesday afternoon, fixing penalties for an assault on a president, vice president, cabinet officer, governor and lieutenant governors. The bill as originally drawn only applied to governors and lieutenant governors of Ohio, but the amendment of Senator Connell increases its scope so as to extend protection to governors and lieutenant governors of any state, territory or possession of the United States, who may visit Ohio. The measure was passed as amended by Senator Connell Wednesday afternoon.
There is not the slightest doubt that it will be enacted into a law by the action of the house.

The act makes death the penalty in case the assault results fatally, and 20 years' imprisonment in the penitentiary if the result is otherwise. One consideration among many others which prompted Senator Connell to submit the amendment was to place a safeguard about Governor Taft, of the Philippines, who is now en route to Cincinnati, his former home.

The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, in advertising to the makeup of the senate committees, made special reference to Senator Connell in his capacity of chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, commenting upon the rarity of placing a first term in such an important position and predicting that he would become a leader upon the floor of the senate.

John Henry, known as "Slippery John," who is now serving a term of four years in the penitentiary for a crime committed in Columbiana county, is again in trouble behind the walls. A woman, whom Henry declared was his sister, was detected with six prison-made shirts in her possession, which she said had been given to her by Henry. She had concealed the shirts in a basket. John was asked to give an explanation, but he could give none. The shirts had evidently been taken from one of the state shops, and as Henry seemed to have been responsible for their disappearance, he was punished by having good time deducted from his record.
This will be restored if he is not reported for the same offense within a certain period. Henry hails from East Rochester. He was convicted of the theft of a quantity of clover seed.
This is his third term.

A suspected case of arson was reported to the state fire marshal from Lectonia recently, but an investigation by Deputy Hart, of Akron, failed to develop enough evidence to warrant carrying the matter into court.

At the Ohio State university this spring Miss Sara Swaney, of East Liverpool, who is a candidate for a degree, will write a thesis on "The Use of Animals as Literary Material."

a candidate for the degree of mechanical engineer, will write a thesis on "Comparative Road Tests of Consoli-dative Locomotives."

Mr. Crist is a member, has got down

FAST AND FURIOUS

Was the Fun With Snowballs Until Police Interference Was Needed.

A high carnival of fun was held by the young people on Mulberry street last evening. Upward of a hundred employees of the potteries had a sham battle with snowballs and the fun became general. Every male pedestrian was obliged to take off his hat to the rompers and each lady was compelled to make a bow or be pelted.

Captain Terrance was summoned from the fire station after the fun had grown too furious and gave warning that arrests would follow failure to stop it. The trouble stopped and people who had kept indoors to escape the missiles were free to come out and go their way.

Homer Moore has returned from Pittsburgh, where he received his honorable discharge from the Twenty-eighth infantry. With 26 young men from New Brighton, Pa., he recently enlisted for Philippine service, but got no farther than California. He had a short time previous enlisted with the Tenth regulars, meeting with similar misfortune to his ambition.

The young man finally gave up the idea of being a soldier and this week went to work for John Demerling, a Laughlin No. 2 jiggerman.

Small Boy Seriously Hurt While Coasting—Sled Struck a Stump.

Roy Baker, 11-year-old son of J. H. He was found in an insensible condition and a physician said that while the lad's nose had been broken, his skull was not fractured.

Sleigh Tipped Over.

A lively runaway happened on College street last evening. The horse of William Swindells, who was out with a friend in a cutter, took fright, and, in rounding a corner, tipped over the sleigh. With nothing but the shafts attached the horse ran to the barn, where he is stabled. Occupants of the cutter were only slightly bruised.

FOUGHT WITH MARK HANNA

Dr. H. C. McCook Relates Stories of His School Days in Lisbon.

Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook, one of the most prominent Presbyterian clergymen in Philadelphia, was born and raised in Lisbon, and will be well remembered, especially among the older citizens. In a recent interview Dr. McCook made the statement that school boy encounters licked sense into him. Going further, he stated, that "it is not at all a bad thing for boys to fight. When I was a school boy in Lisbon I did a lot of fist-fighting. Whether it did the other boys any good or not I do not know, though some of them have turned out pretty well. Some of these were Mark Hanna, Governor Campbell and 'Billy' Armstrong, who was for years editor of the Cleveland Plaindealer.

"But I do know it did me a lot of good, for it licked a bit of common sense into me. We had an old Scotch-Irish schoolmaster called 'Old Davy Anderson.' He never cared how much we fought so long as he did not get official notice before the first fight came off, but he always insisted that we should shake hands afterward."

BOYS AND SNOWBALLS

Give Rise to Numerous Complaints to the Mayor—Arrests May Be Made.

In the past few days numerous complaints have been made to Mayor Davidson concerning the young boys who are taking advantage of the opportunity to throw snowballs. Teamsters, especially, claim to be pestered, while many pedestrians complain that they have been struck in the face by the icy missiles hurled by the careless youngsters.

Mayor Davidson does not forget that he was once a boy himself, and for this reason is inclined to be lenient. However, he says that if the practice of snowballing reaches a point where the citizens are menaced he will be compelled to fine the juvenile offenders.

MISLAID STOCKS FOUND

The Result Is a Small Fortune for a Mother And Her Daughter.

Uhrichsville, January 23.—Mrs. P. C. Spiker and her sister, Miss Belle Scott, of this city, have just received word that they are heirs to a nice little sum of money from the estate of their grandfather, James Whitaker.

Mr. Whitaker died over 40 years ago in Harrison county. Recently several thousand dollars' worth of railroad stock was found which belonged to him, but had been mislaid. An administrator has been appointed to settle up the estate the second time.

A Bluff That Wins.

An attack of hysteria simulating unconsciousness in a woman may be stopped, says Modern Medicine, "by the surgeon taking a pair of scissors and regretfully announcing that he will have to cut all the patient's hair off in order to make the application to her head. It is doubtful whether this bluff has even been known to fail."

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop formation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. Your only need a few does of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Charles F. Craig's, Foutts Bldg., East Liverpool, O. Get Green's special almanac.

AN ABLE ATTORNEY FOR CITY SOLICITOR

W. K. Gaston, the Present Efficient Incumbent a Candidate For Re-Election.

MANY CASES DISPOSED OF

The Duties of the Office Have More Than Doubled During the Past Two Years, Yet All Matters Have Been Ably Handled.

As a candidate for re-election to the office of city solicitor, W. K. Gaston presents his name to the people of East Liverpool. Mr. Gaston is a lawyer of more than ordinary ability, and his record as the city's legal adviser has not been excelled by any of his predecessors.

There has been more legal business to transact, more technical questions of law at issue, more lawsuits on the court dockets to dispose of than was ever known to arise during a single term of any solicitor before. Yet practically all these have been disposed of by Mr. Gaston in a manner that was not only a credit to himself, but to the city as well.

He has always been prominently connected with the Republican party and has sacrificed neither time nor experience in anything that would further the party's interests. In view of the clean record Mr. Gaston sustains, the able manner in which he has handled the affairs of the city during his present term, certainly entitles him to ask and reasonably expect the hearty support of every Republican voter in the city.

UNITED DEMOCRACY ADVOCATED

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Black Gives Advice as to Organizing the Party in Pennsylvania.

Chester, Pa., Jan. 23.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Chauncey F. Black has written a letter to Samuel Fetter, H. P. Schofield and others of Chester and Delaware counties in reply to a joint letter sent by them to Mr. Black, asking his advice as to organizing the Democratic party of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Black in his letter treats the subject at considerable length. In part he says:

"I answer that if we would succeed in the immediate future, the party must be organized as to include within its ranks all those who adhere to Democratic principles of government. In general, nothing could be more unwise, perhaps fatal, than the reckless and useless perpetuation of recent differences. I, and I suppose you, being straight Democrats, supported Mr. Bryan and those great declarations of human rights—the Chicago and Kansas City platforms—with all the fervor of which we are capable. But there were some Democrats, most of them as honest as we, who magnified the silver question into a vital issue, and who, therefore, disagreeing with us, our platforms and our candidates, assisted, directly or indirectly, to put the imperialist party into power. They have realized their error. They see the republic transformed into an empire. They see the constitution disregarded; the government administered in the interest of a class; the money power omnipotent; the congress taxing for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many; gigantic industrial combinations flourishing unopposed; and a European colonial system established instead of our familiar and excellent American territorial system, with the mighty military and naval armaments required to support it. Those Democrats who were misled by false and corrupt clamor into helping to bring on this condition of things are heartily sick and sorry.

Mr. Black advocated the organization of clubs as a powerful factor.

THE FUTURE OF FREE CUBA

By TOMAS ESTRADA PALMA, the Island Republic's First President

WISH to correct the statements that have been made to the effect that my candidacy was advised by the United States government and that if elected I would be under its control. Of course, I can never forget the debt we owe this country for helping us gain our independence. I love the United States. Cuba owes much to it as a nation.

Notwithstanding, I am first of all a Cuban.

NO ONE WILL CONTROL ME. I AM FREE TO ACT WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR. I HAVE MADE NO LEDGES FOR THE PURPOSE OF GAINING OFFICE.

A commercial treaty with the United States is an urgent necessity. It should be effected without loss of time.

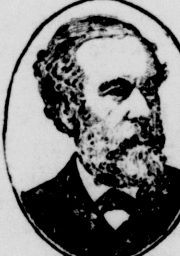

I WILL ASK, WITH EVERY EXPECTATION OF THE REQUEST BEING GRANTED, THAT A REASONABLE REDUCTION SHALL BE MADE IN THE DUTY ON SUGAR AND TOBACCO, THE TWO STAPLES OF CUBAN AGRICULTURE. If this reduction is granted, the prosperity of Cuba will be immediate and great. IF IT IS DENIED, IT WILL MEAN RUIN. There will be $500,000,000 employed in the sugar and tobacco industries, all of which will be lost if the American door is closed. The fields of Cuba will be desolated and the sugar mills ruined just as thoroughly as they were by the Spanish incendiaries.

TIME TO AID CUBA

By Senator O. H. PLATT, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Relations With Cuba

THE TIME HAS COME TO DO SOMETHING FOR THE COMMERCIAL PROSPERITY OF CUBA.

The way is clear. We shall be fulfilling both a moral and a political obligation. I think it can be done with material benefit to the United States as a whole and without injury to any particular industry. That it will work to the moral and financial advantage of the new republic there can be no doubt.

By SERENO E. PAYNE, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee

SHOULD we find that the needs of Cuba require it and that our own economic conditions would not suffer, I SEE NO CONSTITUTIONAL REASONS WHY A BILL SCALING THE DINGLEY RATES ON CUBAN PRODUCTS SHOULD NOT BE FRAMED, provided the new government there makes satisfactory concessions to the United States.

WARNED BY RICHARDSON.

Man, Afterward Murdered, Warned Fife to Keep Away From His Wife, Now on Trial.

Plattsburg, Mo., Jan. 23.—The name of Stewart Fife, the young society man, arrested recently at North Yakima, Wash., on a charge of murdering Frank W. Richardson, the Savannah merchant, was brought in frequently at the trial of Mrs. Addie L. Richardson, widow of the dead man, accused of murder. Judge Burns decided an important point for the state by admitting evidence that might tend to show Mrs. Richardson's relations with Fife, which the defense had sought to keep out. R. A. Morris testified to seeing the couple together on different occasions. An important witness was Bruce Stanton, a clerk in the Fife-Richardson store, who told of a quarrel between Richardson and Fife in the presence of the witness and Mrs. Richardson, when the four were walking toward the Richardson home.

"Richardson," said the witness, "who had been cursing Fife, turned on him finally and told him he would have to keep away from Mrs. Richardson. Fife told him to shut up his mouth, or he would shut it up for him. Richardson and Fife started toward each other and I told Richardson to go into the house."

Charles Glazier, also a clerk in the store, was shown a revolver found five blocks from the scene of the murder and believed it to be the weapon with which Richardson was killed. It looked like Fife's revolver, he said, but he could not be sure.

FOUGHT WITH MARK HANNA

Dr. H. C. McCook Relates Stories of His School Days in Lisbon.

Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook, one of the most prominent Presbyterian clergymen in Philadelphia, was born and raised in Lisbon, and will be well remembered, especially among the older citizens. In a recent interview Dr. McCook made the statement that school boy encounters licked sense into him. Going further, he stated, that "it is not at all a bad thing for boys to fight. When I was a school boy in Lisbon I did a lot of fist-fighting. Whether it did the other boys any good or not I do not know, though some of them have turned out pretty well. Some of these were Mark Hanna, Governor Campbell and 'Billy' Armstrong, who was for years editor of the Cleveland Plaindealer.

"But I do know it did me a lot of good, for it licked a bit of common sense into me. We had an old Scotch-Irish schoolmaster called 'Old Davy Anderson.' He never cared how much we fought so long as he did not get official notice before the first fight came off, but he always insisted that we should shake hands afterward."

Give Rise to Numerous Complaints to the Mayor—Arrests May Be Made.

In the past few days numerous complaints have been made to Mayor Davidson concerning the young boys who are taking advantage of the opportunity to throw snowballs. Teamsters, especially, claim to be pestered, while many pedestrians complain that they have been struck in the face by the icy missiles hurled by the careless youngsters.

Mayor Davidson does not forget that he was once a boy himself, and for this reason is inclined to be lenient. However, he says that if the practice of snowballing reaches a point where the citizens are menaced he will be compelled to fine the juvenile offenders.

MISLAID STOCKS FOUND

The Result Is a Small Fortune for a Mother And Her Daughter.

Uhrichville, January 23.—Mrs. P. C. Spiker and her sister, Miss Belle Scott, of this city, have just received word that they are heirs to a nice little sum of money from the estate of their grandfather, James Whitaker.

Mr. Whitaker died over 40 years ago in Harrison county. Recently several thousand dollars' worth of railroad stock was found which belonged to him, but had been mislaid. An administrator has been appointed to settle up the estate the second time.

A Bluff That Wins.

An attack of hysteria simulating unconsciousness in a woman may be stopped, says Modern Medicine, "by the surgeon taking a pair of scissors and regretfully announcing that he will have to cut all the patient's hair off in order to make the application to her head. It is doubtful whether this bluff has even been known to fail."

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annotto Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop formation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. Your only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Charles F. AN ABLE ATTORNEY FOR CITY SOLICITOR

W. K. Gaston, the Present Efficient Incumbent a Candidate For Re-Election.

MANY CASES DISPOSED OF

The Duties of the Office Have More Than Doubled During the Past Two Years, Yet All Matters Have Been Ably Handled.

As a candidate for re-election to the office of city solicitor, W. K. Gaston presents his name to the people of East Liverpool. Mr. Gaston is a lawyer of more than ordinary ability, and his record as the city's legal adviser has not been excelled by any of his predecessors.

There has been more legal business to transact, more technical questions of law at issue, more lawsuits on the court dockets to dispose of than was ever known to arise during a single term of any solicitor before. Yet practically all these have been disposed of by Mr. Gaston in a manner that was not only a credit to himself, but to the city as well.

He has always been prominently connected with the Republican party and has sacrificed neither time nor experience in anything that would further the party's interests. In view of the clean record Mr. Gaston sustains, the able manner in which he has handled the affairs of the city during his present term, certainly entitles him to ask and reasonably expect the hearty support of every Republican voter in the city.

UNITED DEMOCRACY ADVOCATED

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Black Gives Advice as to Organizing the Party in Pennsylvania.

Chester, Pa., Jan. 23.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Chas. F. Black has written a letter to Samuel Petters, H. P. Schofield and others of Chester and Delaware counties in reply to a joint letter sent by them to Mr. Black, asking his advice as to organizing the Democratic party of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Black in his letter treats the subject at considerable length. In part he says:

"I answer that if we would succeed in the immediate future, the party must be organized as to include within its ranks all those who adhere to Democratic principles of government. In general, nothing could be more unwise, perhaps fatal, than the reckless and useless perpetuation of recent differences. I, and I suppose you, being straight Democrats, supported Mr. Bryan and those great declarations of human rights—the Chicago and Kansas City platforms—with all the fervor of which we are capable. But there were some Democrats, most of them as honest as we, who magnified the silver question into a vital issue, and who, therefore, disagreeing with us, our platforms and our candidates, assisted, directly or indirectly, to put the imperialist party into power. They have realized their error. They see the republic transformed into an empire. They see the constitution disregarded; the government administered in the interest of a class; the money power omnipotent; the congress taxing for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many; gigantic industrial combinations flourishing unopposed; and a European colonial system established instead of our familiar and excellent American territorial system, with the mighty military and naval armaments required to support it. Those Democrats who were misled by false and corrupt clamor into helping to bring on this condition of things are heartily sick and sorry.

Mr. Black advocated the organization of clubs as a powerful factor.

By TOMAS ESTRADA PALMA, the Island Republic's First President

WISH to correct the statements that have been made to the effect that my candidacy was advised by the United States government and that if elected I would be under its control. Of course, I can never forget the debt we owe this country for helping us gain our independence. I love the United States. Cuba owes much to it as a nation.

Notwithstanding, I am first of all a Cuban.

NO ONE WILL CONTROL ME. I AM FREE TO ACT WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR. I HAVE MADE NO PLEDGES FOR THE PURPOSE OF GAINING OFFICE.

A commercial treaty with the United States is an urgent necessity. It should be effected without loss of time.

I WILL ASK, WITH EVERY EXPECTATION OF THE REQUEST BEING GRANTED, THAT A REASONABLE REDUCTION SHALL BE MADE IN THE DUTY ON SUGAR AND TOBACCO, THE TWO STAPLES OF CUBAN AGRICULTURE. If this reduction is granted, the prosperity of Cuba will be immediate and great. IF IT IS DENIED, IT WILL MEAN RUIN. There will be $500,000,000 employed in the sugar and tobacco industries, all of which will be lost if the American door is closed. The fields of Cuba will be desolated and the sugar mills ruined just as thoroughly as they were by the Spanish incendiaries.

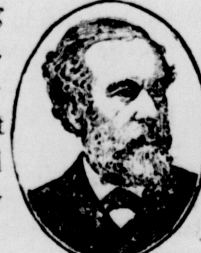

TIME TO AID CUBA

By Senator O. H. PLATT, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Relations With Cuba

THE TIME HAS COME TO DO SOMETHING FOR THE COMMERCIAL PROSPERITY OF CUBA.

The way is clear. We shall be fulfilling both a moral and a political obligation.

I think it can be done with material benefit to the United States as a whole and without injury to any particular industry. That it will work to the moral and financial advantage of the new republic there can be no doubt.

By SERENO E. PAYNE, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee

SHOULD we find that the needs of Cuba require it and that our own economic conditions would not suffer, I SEE NO CONSTITUTIONAL REASONS NOW WHY A BILL SCALING THE DINGLEY RATES ON CUBAN PRODUCTS SHOULD NOT BE FRAMED, provided the new government there makes satisfactory concessions to the United States.

WARNED BY RICHARDSON.

Man, Afterward Murdered, Warned Fife to Keep Away From His Wife, Now on Trial.

Plattsburg, Mo., Jan. 23.—The name of Stewart Fife, the young society man, arrested recently at North Yakima, Wash., on a charge of murdering Frank W. Richardson, the Savannah merchant, was brought in frequently at the trial of Mrs. Addie L. Richardson, widow of the dead man, accused of murder. Judge Burns decided an important point for the state by admitting evidence that might tend to show Mrs. Richardson's relations with Fife, which the defense had sought to keep out. R. A. Morris testified to seeing the couple together on different occasions. An important witness was Bruce Stanton, a clerk in the Fife-Richardson store, who told of a quarrel between Richardson and Fife in the presence of the witness and Mrs. Richardson, when the four were walking toward the Richardson home.

"Richardson," said the witness, "who had been cursing Fife, turned on him finally and told him he would have to keep away from Mrs. Richardson. Fife told him to shut up his mouth, or he would shut it up for him. Richardson and Fife started toward each other and I told Richardson to go into the house."

Charles Glazier, also a clerk in the store, was shown a revolver found five blocks from the scene of the murder and believed it to be the weapon with which Richardson was killed. It looked like Fife's revolver, he said, but he could not be sure.

TWO MEN WERE KILLED.

Two Probably Fatally Hurt by the Destruction of Part of an Ohio Powder Plant.

Kings Mills, O., Jan. 23.—Two men were killed and two probably fatally hurt Tuesday night by a terrific explosion at the Kings Mills Powder company's plant. The shock was felt for miles around. Every vestige of the glazing mill was destroyed. The dead:

William Dustin, of Mainville, O.; blown to pieces.

David Thompson, of Mason, O., died a few minutes after the explosion.

The injured: Charles Harper, burned from head to feet; recovery improbable.

Butler, frightfully burned; probably will die.

Harper and Butler are from South Lebanon, O. The glazing mill was located some distance from the other buildings connected with the powder works and was the only one that was destroyed.

5,000 GET INCREASE.

From 10 to 15 Per Cent Wage Advance by American Window Glass Company.

More Than $300,000 A MONTH

For the Next Three Months—President Burns, of the Window Glass Workers' Association, Pleaded—Independent Co. Will Meet Advance.

Pittsburg, Jan. 23.—The American Window Glass company voluntarily advanced the wages of all its skilled workmen. Fully 5,000 men will be benefited. The advance ranges from 10 to 15 per cent, and in the next three months will amount to from $200,000 to $400,000.

A notice was sent out by Mr. George E. Moore, general superintendent of the American Window Glass company, to the managers and paymasters at the different factories.

Simon Burns, president of the Window Glassworkers' association, accepted the change in the wage scale. In a letter, replying to the notice from President Chambers, of the American Window Glass company, Mr. Burns praised the action of the company and contrasted it with the past attitude of the Independent Glass company. He further said in part:

Will Allow Deserters to Return.

"This organization will now throw down the bars and allow blowers and gatherers to return without any fine. We will admit cutters and flateners as members without any fee, providing they have work. They should be interested in a company like the American Window Glass company, as we have secured from it the best of results for the window glass workers, and if they are not ungrateful they will assist in protecting the trade and the manufacturers who are their friends."

The advance in the wages of the workers of the American company likely will have the effect of averting the cutting of prices and insure a steady market, despite the past attitude of the Independent Glass company. At present the window glass market is in excellent condition, the demand being equal to the production. Another attempt will be made today to reach an agreement in prices.

The three combinations—the American Window Glass company, the Federation Co-Operative Window Glass company and the Independent Glass company—have been invited to meet with the executive committee of the National Window Glass Jobbers' association in New York. The object is to enter into an agreement for the purpose of maintaining prices, and if this is done the jobbers are prepared to place a very heavy order. The officers of the Independent Glass company have declined to participate in the meeting and have repeatedly stated since Jan. 1 that they propose to act independently, and conduct their business as they deem wisest and best.

If the Independent company refuses to be bound by the agreement it is believed that there will be a general stampede of workmen to the Burns organization, the original association of the window glass workers.

The seceders, as already announced, will be permitted to return unconditionally, all fines having been remitted. Any member of the new organization under the wage agreement has the privilege of stopping work upon giving seven days' notice.

In addition of the advantage of again becoming members of the old organization they will be enabled to secure employment in the factories of the American Window Glass company at higher wages than they are now being paid. The American company will likely be enabled to fill all of its spare pots, and it is believed will cripple the Independent company so that it will not be an important factor in the market, as it is known

there is a great scarcity of skilled blowers.

Not Enough Skilled Glass Workers.

There are now about 3,800 pots in the country and only a sufficient number of blowers to man 2,300. No company is operating with a full force of men.

Unless the other companies meet the advance in wages made by the American company it is thought it will be impossible to retain their skilled workmen, and the American Window Glass company, with the assured co-operation of the Federation combine, will control the window glass situation.

Upon hearing of the action of the American Window Glass company, President C. P. Cole, of the Independent Glass company, announced that his company will meet any advances in wages made by the American.

RENOUNCED THRONE FOR LOVE.

The Archduchess Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary Becomes the Bride of a Poor Lieutenant.

Vienna, Jan. 23.—The Archduchess Elizabeth, daughter of the Princess Stephanie and the late Crown Prince Rudolf, was married to Prince Otto von Windesgratz, in the grand hall of the imperial palace.

The wedding of this member of the house of Hapsburg, who was willing to renounce her rights to the Hungarian throne to wed the man of her choice, a poor lieutenant in the Austrian army, was graced by the members of the royal family, as well as representatives of the noblest Austrian families. Emperor Francis Joseph, surrounded by archdukes and archduchesses, the members of the cabinet, representatives of the army and the navy and members of the nobility, were there to show their approval of the match and to offer their congratulations to the happy couple.

The Archduchess Elizabeth was dressed in pure white. She took her oath of renunciation of claims to the throne before a crucifix, with her right hand on the Bible, previous to the marriage ceremony. Count Goluchowski, minister of foreign affairs, and the cardinal archbishop of Vienna administered the oath. After the oath had been administered Elizabeth kissed the hand of the emperor.

The Archduchess Elizabeth is 18 years old, and has a winning and charming personality. Her father's tragic death occurred just when she was old enough to understand how deep was her bereavement.

Prince Otto belongs to the cadet branch of an ancient family, but he is only a serene highness. For some years he has turned his attention to agriculture and cattle raising. He is 28 years old.

CUMMINGS BECAME AROUSED.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Some of the old partisan fire was injected into the proceedings of the house yesterday when the item in the urgent deficiency bill appropriating $500,000 for a military post at Manila, which the Democrats have been using as a text for speeches in opposition to the Philippine policy of the administration for the last three days, was reached. Mr. Cannon, in charge of the bill, confessed that the appropriation was subject to a point of order, and it went out. In lieu thereof, he offered an amendment to appropriate the same sum for the "shelter and protection" of the officers and enlisted men of the army on duty in the Philippines. This the chair held to be in order, and it at once became the subject of a very spirited debate, in which Mr. Richardson, the minority leader; Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, and Mr. DeArmond, of Missouri, were pitted against the chairman of the appropriations committee. Partisan applause rang out on each side to cheer on the respective champions, and there seemed to be a solid lineup on each side of the political aisle.

But when the vote came to be taken Mr. Cummings, a New York Democrat, voted with the Republicans, turning angrily on his political brethren as he did so, and with clinched fist in their faces, crying out that he hoped he might be paralyzed when he refused to protect an American soldier. The vote on the adoption of the amendment stood: Ayes, 127; nays, 100.

No Debate on Philippines Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Debate on the Philippine tariff bill was not continued in the senate yesterday, no member of the body being prepared to proceed with the discussion. The bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce was under discussion for nearly two hours. Little progress was made with it, as while the debate disclosed no objections to the main features of the bill there was a disposition on the part of the senate to give it careful consideration and to perfect the details of the measure.

RUSSIA OUR FRIEND.

Late Count Moraveiff Said No to Proposed Joint Action For Spain.

FRENCH AUTHORITIES SO ASSERT

Declare England, Like the Rest, Was Waiting to See What the Others Would Do—Germany Encouraged Spain to Resist, Then Shook Her.

Paris, Jan. 23.—In view of the statement made by Lord Cranborne, the British under secretary of state for foreign affairs, in the house of commons Monday on the subject of representations made to Great Britain before and after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and the dispatch of the Associated Press from London Tuesday on the same subject, the correspondent of the Associated Press made inquiries in an authoritative quarter here.

The declarations received were in part:

Russian Official Said No.

In the first place, in the Spanish negotiations, at the end of March, 1898, to secure the intervention of the powers in her favor, Great Britain took the same attitude as France and the other powers. She neither refused nor consented to join in collective action. All the powers were hesitating until they ascertained the intentions of the others. Russia settled the matter by the late Count Mouravieff's blunt rejection of the proposal.

Later Austria instructed its ambassadors to propose to the European governments that a note be presented at Washington urging the United States to accept Spain's offer and avert war. Balfour promised the Spanish ambassador to instruct Lord Pauncefoot to act alone, or with his colleagues, with the view to maintain peace. No collective action was definitely agreed upon, though Russia, France and Germany were disposed towards a movement which would avert an outbreak of hostilities. A few days before the war, however, it was declared that Mr. Balfour had raised the objection to which Lord Cranborne alluded in the house of commons Monday against any note which would have the appearance of putting pressure on the United States or offering an opinion on the United States' attitude.

All That England Did For Us.

This was the extent of Great Britain's action in favor of the United States.

The statement of a prominent British official quoted in the London dispatch of the Associated Press Tuesday regarding the alleged support by France of the Austrian proposal, is declared to be incorrect. France did not back up the proposal and the French ambassador in London confined himself to making an inquiry as to what view the British government took of the matter. France's attitude throughout was friendly to the United States, as well as to Spain, her ardent desire being to avert war. She took no initiative in any suggestion tending to put pressure on the United States, nor at any time encouraged Spain to resistance. Her influence was always directed, in the purview of the powers, to maintaining peace.

The exact value which should be placed on Great Britain's leanings towards the United States can be gauged, it is declared, by the fact that when war was declared against Germany; secondly, against Russia, and only thirdly against Great Britain. His resentment against Germany was due to the latter having encouraged Spain to resist and then having abandoned her at the last moment.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 23.—The correspondent of the Associated Press here has obtained the following statement from the Russian foreign office regarding the announcement made in the British house of commons Monday concerning negotiations between the powers before and after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war and the assertions made by a British foreign official to a representative of the Associated Press on the same subject:

Statement From Russia.

"Russia has always been and is now extremely desirous of maintaining amicable relations with the United States. Russia never had any intention of participating in any collective step in the Spanish-American dispute which did not directly concern her. Nor did Russia receive any proposition having such action in view. Indeed, we received no information regarding Austria's alleged initiative or about an attempt on the part of any of the powers to interfere in the interest of Spain."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

This you will do by selecting the Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western, "The Scenic Line of the World," and "The Great Salt Lake Route," in one or both directions, as this line has two separate routes across the Rocky mountains between Denver and Ogden. Tickets reading via this route are available either via its main line through the Royal George, Leadville, over Tennessee Pass, through the Canon of the Grand river and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon of the Gunnison, thus enabling the traveler to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Three splendidly equipped fast trains are operated to and from the Pacific coast, which carry through standard sleepers daily between Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. Dining cars (service a la carte) on all through trains. If you contemplate such a trip, let us send you beautifully illustrated pamphlets, free. S. K. Hooper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Col. 7-13-11

5,000 GET INCREASE.

For the Next Three Months—President Burns, of the Window Glass Workers' Association, Pleaded—Independent Co. Will Meet Advance.

Pittsburg, Jan. 23.—The American Window Glass company voluntarily advanced the wages of all its skilled workmen. Fully 5,000 men will be benefited. The advance ranges from 10 to 15 per cent, and in the next three months will amount to from $200,000 to $400,000.

A notice was sent out by Mr. George E. Moore, general superintendent of the American Window Glass company, to the managers and paymasters at the different factories.

Simon Burns, president of the Window Glassworkers' association, accepted the change in the wage scale. In a letter, replying to the notice from President Moore, of the American Window Glass company, Mr. Burns praised the action of the company and contrasted it with the past attitude of the independent Glass company. He further said in part:

Will Allow Deserters to Return.
"This organization will now throw down the bars and allow blowers and gatherers to return without any fine. We will admit cutters and flateners as members without any fee, providing they have work. They should be interested in a company like the American Window Glass company, as we have secured from it the best of results for the window glass workers, and if they are not ungrateful they will assist in protecting the trade and the manufacturers who are their friends."

The advance in the wages of the workers of the American company likely will have the effect of averting the cutting of prices and insure a steady market, despite the past attitude of the independent Glass company. At present the window glass market is in excellent condition, the demand being equal to the production. Another attempt will be made today to reach an agreement in prices.

The three combinations—the American Window Glass company, the Federation Co-operative Window Glass company and the Independent Glass company—have been invited to meet with the executive committee of the National Window Glass Jobbers' association in New York. The object is to enter into an agreement for the purpose of maintaining prices, and if this is done the jobbers are prepared to place a very heavy order. The officers of the Independent Glass company have declined to participate in the meeting and have repeatedly stated since Jan. 1 that they propose to act independently, and conduct their business as they deem wisest and best.

If the independent company refuses to be bound by the agreement it is believed that there will be a general stampede of workmen to the Burns organization, the original association of the window glass workers.

The seceders, as already announced, will be permitted to return unconditionally, all fines having been remitted. Any member of the new organization under the wage agreement has the privilege of stopping work upon giving seven days' notice.

In addition to the advantage of again becoming members of the old organization they will be enabled to secure employment in the factories of the American Window Glass company at higher wages than they are now being paid. The American company will likely be enabled to fill all of its spare pots, and it is believed will cripple the independent company so that it will not be an important factor in the market, as it is known

there is a great scarcity of skilled blowers.

Not Enough Skilled Glass Workers.

There are now about 3,800 pots in the country and only a sufficient number of blowers to man 2,300. No company is operating with a full force of men.

Unless the other companies meet the advance in wages made by the American company it is thought it will be impossible to retain their skilled workmen, and the American Window Glass company, with the assured co-operation of the Federation combine, will control the window glass situation.

Upon hearing of the action of the American Window Glass company, President C. P. Cole, of the Independent Glass company, announced that his company will meet any advances in wages made by the American.

RENOUNCED THRONE FOR LOVE.

The Archduchess Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary Becomes the Bride of a Poor Lieutenant.

Vienna, Jan. 23.—The Archduchess Elizabeth, daughter of the Princess Stephanie and the late Crown Prince Rudolph, was married to Prince Otto von Windesgratz, in the grand hall of the imperial palace.

The wedding of this member of the house of Hapsburg, who was willing to renounce her rights to the Hungarian throne to wed the man of her choice, a poor lieutenant in the Austrian army, was graced by the members of the royal family, as well as representatives of the noblest Austrian families. Emperor Francis Joseph, surrounded by archdukes and archduchesses, the members of the cabinet, representatives of the army and the navy and members of the nobility, were there to show their approval of the match and to offer their congratulations to the happy couple.

The Archduchess Elizabeth was dressed in pure white. She took her oath of renunciation of claims to the throne before a crucifix, with her right hand on the Bible, previous to the marriage ceremony. Count Goluchowski, minister of foreign affairs, and the cardinal archbishop of Vienna administered the oath. After the oath had been administered Elizabeth kissed the hand of the emperor.

The Archduchess Elizabeth is 18 years old, and has a winning and charming personality. Her father's tragic death occurred just when she was old enough to understand how deep was her bereavement.

Prince Otto belongs to the cadet branch of an ancient family, but he is only a serene highness. For some years he has turned his attention to agriculture and cattle raising. He is 28 years old.

CUMMINGS BECAME AROUSED.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Some of the old partisan fire was injected into the proceedings of the house yesterday when the item in the urgent deficiency bill appropriating $500,000 for a military post at Manila, which the Democrats have been using as a text for speeches in opposition to the Philippine policy of the administration for the last three days, was reached. Mr. Cannon, in charge of the bill, confessed that the appropriation was subject to a point of order, and it went out. In lieu thereof, he offered an amendment to appropriate the same sum for the "shelter and protection" of the officers and enlisted men of the army on duty in the Philippines. This the chair held to be in order, and it at once became the subject of a very spirited debate, in which Mr. Richardson, the minority leader; Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, and Mr. DeArmond, of Missouri, were pitted against the chairman of the appropriations committee. Partisan applause rang out on each side to cheer on the respective champions, and there seemed to be a solid lineup on each side of the political aisle.

But when the vote came to be taken Mr. Cummings, a New York Democrat, voted with the Republicans, turning angrily on his political brethren as he did so, and with clinched fist in their faces, crying out that he hoped he might be paralyzed when he refused to protect an American soldier. The vote on the adoption of the amendment stood: Ayes, 127; nays, 100.

Before the general debate closed Mr. Watson paid a beautiful tribute to the late President McKinley.

No Debate on Philippines Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Debate on the Philippine tariff bill was not continued in the senate yesterday, no member of the body being prepared to proceed with the discussion. The bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce was under discussion for nearly two hours. Little progress was made with it, as while the debate disclosed no objections to the main features of the bill there was a disposition on the part of the senate to give it careful consideration and to perfect the details of the measure.

STORM CAUSED DISCOMFORT IN OHIO AND PENNSYLVANIA.

Pittsburg, Jan. 23.—Dispatches received indicate that the snow storm caused widespread damage and discomfort in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Near Kent, O., a funeral procession became stranded. Near Akron a crowd of high school students, who had been to a banquet at Barberton, stalled at midnight, Tuesday night, and did not reach Akron until shortly before 3 o'clock, Wednesday morning.

RUSSIA OUR FRIEND.

Paris, Jan. 23.—In view of the statement made by Lord Cranborne, the British under secretary of state for foreign affairs, in the house of commons Monday on the subject of representations made to Great Britain before and after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and the dispatch of the Associated Press from London Tuesday on the same subject, the correspondent of the Associated Press made inquiries in an authoritative quarter here.

Russian Official Said No.

In the first place, in the Spanish negotiations, at the end of March, 1898, to secure the intervention of the powers in her favor, Great Britain took the same attitude as France and the other powers. She neither refused nor consented to join in collective action. All the powers were hesitating until they ascertained the intentions of the others. Russia settled the matter by the late Count Mouraveiff's blunt rejection of the proposal.

Later Austria instructed its ambassadors to propose to the European governments that a note be presented at Washington urging the United States to accept Spain's offer and avert war. Balfour promised the Spanish ambassador to instruct Lord Pauncefote to act alone, or with his colleagues, with the view to maintaining peace. No collective action was definitely agreed upon, though Russia, France and Germany were disposed towards a movement which would avert an outbreak of hostilities. A few days before the war, however, it was declared that Mr. Balfour had raised the objection to which Lord Cranborne alluded in the house of commons Monday against any note which would have the appearance of putting pressure on the United States or offering an opinion on the United States' attitude.

All That England Did For Us.

This was the extent of Great Britain's action in favor of the United States.

The statement of a prominent British official quoted in the London dispatch of the Associated Press Tuesday regarding the alleged support by France of the Austrian proposal, is declared to be incorrect. France did not back up the proposal and the French ambassador in London confined himself to making an inquiry as to what view the British government took of the matter. France's attitude throughout was friendly to the United States, as well as to Spain, her ardent desire being to avert war. She took no initiative in any suggestion tending to put pressure on the United States, nor at any time encouraged Spain to resistance. Her influence was always directed, in the parlance of the powers, to maintaining peace.

The exact value which should be placed on Great Britain's leanings towards the United States can be gauged, it is declared, by the fact that when war was declared Senor Gullon was furious, firstly, against Germany; secondly, against Russia, and only thirdly against Great Britain. His resentment against Germany was due to the latter having encouraged Spain to resist and then having abandoned her at the last moment.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 23.—The correspondent of the Associated Press here has obtained the following statement from the Russian foreign office regarding the announcement made in the British house of commons Monday concerning negotiations between the powers before and after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war and the assertions made by a British foreign official to a representative of the Associated Press on the same subject:

Statement From Russia.

"Russia has always been and is now extremely desirous of maintaining amicable relations with the United States. Russia never had any intention of participating in any collective step in the Spanish-American dispute which did not directly concern her. Nor did Russia receive any proposition having such action in view. Indeed, we received no information regarding Austria's alleged initiative or about an attempt on the part of any of the powers to interfere in the interest of Spain."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Effort is put forth in certain quarters to make it appear that the canal
commission has changed front and now favors the Panama route, where-
as it formerly favored the Nicaragua.
This is clear misrepresentation. The commission originally regarded the Panama route as the more feasible,
but reported in favor of the other
simply because the Panama company
asked $100,000,000 for its holdings, and
the Nicaragua canal would cost less than the Panama. Now that the price
has been cut to $40,000,000 the commission presents the following strong reasons why the Panama would be cheapest and best: The Panama
route is shorter by 134 miles. The time of canal passage by the Panama
is shorter by 36 hours. The Panama costs $5,000,000 less to complete and $1,000,000 per year less to operate
than the Nicaragua. The purchase price of the Panama includes a complete railway along its banks. None
on the Nicaragua route. Two fine harbors are acquired with the Panama.
Two would have to be made at great
cost in Nicaragua. Panama is exempt
from earthquakes; Nicaragua is in an earthquake region. Annual rainfall
at Panama, 93 inches; at Nicaragua, 256 inches.

The registration bills proposed by
the Republican city committee of this city provides a simple and practical
way of securing the benefits of registration in cities of the size of East
Liverpool. It extends the provisions of the state laws relating to registration in second-class cities, making
them applicable to all cities having
the requisite population, the minimum
of which remains to be fixed. It is argued that it would entail some expense to provide the requisite machinery and set it in operation. This is undeniably true; but it is equally true that good things are seldom to be had without paying for them. Trivial cost should not be suffered to stand in the way of any measure that
will tend to promote and insure purity
of elections. Registration rules, properly made and diligently enforced,
would avoid dissatisfaction and trouble, and meet with the hearty approval of honest voters.

Down in New Jersey an ex-member
of the legislature is befriending the
mosquito, saying the insect's bite is a cure for rheumatism. Doubtless he has seen rheumatic persons and others move with uncommon haste after being attacked by the creature. But that does not prove his theory. They might act just the same if a bear had bitten them.

Platform pledges should be kept.
Tax reform was promised in the Republican state platform, and Governor Nash's measures are generally conceded to meet the requirements. Legislators who desire to work in the people's interests should not suffer the politicians to bamboozle them into allowing the bills to be talked to death.

Perry Belmont, who ran for congress in a New York district and was defeated, spent $15,000 in his campaign, while his successful opponent
spent only $1,400. There is great satisfaction in this demonstration that congressional seats do not go to the highest bidder, even in a locality notorious for political corruption.

All European governments are endeavoring to demonstrate that Uncle
Sam is their great and good friend.
It is pleasant to have them in that
frame of mind.

It is said that the Four Hundred of

New York are making desperate attempts to learn how to say "Hoch!

came natural to them. Here is where Milwaukee can give them cards and spades and beat them without half
trying.

The attempt to start the Ohio gubernatorial contest for 1903 before the spring primaries are over is a trifle
premature. One political contest at a time is enough, even in this region of perpetual politics.

Jiggermen's local No. 12 made a
move at its meeting on Tuesday evening, which will likely be imitated by
all other branches of the Brotherhood
before the time for holding the next national convention. It is a well known fact that the position of delegate to national meetings has been less desirable on account of the expense attached to the trip. Those who have represented the various locals in past years have had reason
to remember this, and a number of the active members of No. 12 have succeeded in having a new plan adopted. It has been customary to pay $2
per day and traveling expenses. No.
12's representatives to the Trenton meeting will be paid $5 per day and mileage as before. Members of No.
9 have taken up the subject and it is expected similar action will be taken
there.

The two new kilns at the Dresden
pottery will be ready for use by Saturday. One of the kilns is being placed and will be fired Saturday,
while the other will be completed by
that time. A number of bricklayers
are employed on the latter, rushing
their work as fast as possible, it being
the desire of the firm to run their
plant to its full capacity next Monday.
Orders are coming in rapidly for this
firm, and all departments will be pushed to the limit during the next few months.

Night kiln firemen are scarce in this city just now. A number of firms
are in need of these workmen and it

kilnmen who have had experience in
this line of work are being pressed

mand good wages, and it is almost
out of the question to secure compe-

George Horner, a kilnman at the

ence yesterday morning as he was preparing to come to work. Horner resides at Calcutta, and in taking his
buggy from the barn yesterday morning, slipped and fell across the shafts
of the buggy, breaking them. Another conveyance was secured and Horner came to town, being a few minutes late at work.

placed before the buyers this month
by the Dresden pottery, by offering
them a seven-piece hotel toilet set.
The first sets have been completed,

Work in the clay department of the Union pottery will probably resume
tomorrow. The new shafting that is to be placed in the jigger shop has been received, as has also a lot of new belting. The kilnmen will not likely begin work before next Monday.

Contrary to expectations no meeting of the board of directors of the East Liverpool Potteries company
was held last evening, owing to the absence from the city of several di-

Messrs. Kelley and McKelvey, who have been employed as kilnmen at
the Ford City pottery, were in the city yesterday on their way to New Cumberland, where they have taken
positions as kilnmen at the Chelsea.
They will begin work at once.

No. 9, employed as a kilnman at the Vodrey pottery, will take a similar position on the glost bench at the Buckeye next week, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Thomas Pickall.

Statistician John T. Wood, of kiln-
men's local No. 9, yesterday afternoon
measured biscuit kiln No. 5 at Laugh-
lin's No. 1, which has been in dispute
for some time. A report will be made to No. 9 Friday evening.

Martin Wolf, who has been employed as a biscuit kilnman at the Goodwin pottery for several years,
has taken a similar position at the old end of the K. T. & K. pottery.

A number of new bins have been placed in the biscuit ware room at
the Smith & Phillips pottery. Carpenters have been working on the
change for several days.

Kilnmen's local No. 9 will hold their regular meeting in Brotherhood hall
tomorrow evening. It is announced that nothing but routine business is
to be considered.

ployed as a kilnman at the Buckeye

a similar position at the Cartwright
pottery.

Effort is put forth in certain quarters to make it appear that the canal
commission has changed front and
now favors the Panama route, where-
as it formerly favored the Nicaragua.
This is clear misrepresentation. The
commission originally regarded the Panama route as the more feasible,
but reported in favor of the other
simply because the Panama company
asked $100,000,000 for its holdings, and the Nicaragua canal would cost less than the Panama. Now that the price
has been cut to $40,000,000 the commission presents the following strong
reasons why the Panama would be
route is shorter by 134 miles. The time of canal passage by the Panama
is shorter by 30 hours. The Panama
costs $5,000,000 less to complete and
$1,300,000 per year less to operate
than the Nicaragua. The purchase
price of the Panama includes a complete railway along its banks. None
on the Nicaragua route. Two fine harbors are acquired with the Panama.
Two would have to be made at great
cost in Nicaragua. Panama is exempt
from earthquakes; Nicaragua is in an earthquake region. Annual rainfall
at Panama, 93 inches; at Nicaragua,
256 inches.

The registration bills proposed by
the Republican city committee of this
city provides a simple and practical
way of securing the benefits of registration in cities of the size of East
Liverpool. It extends the provisions
of the state laws relating to registration in second-class cities, making
the requisite population, the minimum
of which remains to be fixed. It is argued that it would entail some expense to provide the requisite machinery and set it in operation. This
is undeniably true; but it is equally
true that good things are seldom to
be had without paying for them. Trivial cost should not be suffered to
stand in the way of any measure that
of elections. Registration rules, properly made and diligently enforced,
would avoid dissatisfaction and trouble, and meet with the hearty approval of honest voters.

Down in New Jersey an ex-member
of the legislature is befriending the
mosquito, saying the insect's bite is a cure for rheumatism. Doubtless he has seen rheumatic persons and others
move with uncommon haste after
being attacked by the creature. But
that does not prove his theory. They might act just the same if a bear had
bitten them.

Platform pledges should be kept.
Tax reform was promised in the Republican state platform, and Governor Nash's measures are generally conceded to meet the requirements. Legislators who desire to work in the people's interests should not suffer the
politicians to bamboozle them into
death.

Perry Belmont, who ran for con-
defeated, spent $15,000 in his campaign, while his successful opponent
spent only $1,400. There is great satisfaction in this demonstration that
congressional seats do not go to the
highest bidder, even in a locality notorious for political corruption.

deavoring to demonstrate that Uncle
Sam is their great and good friend.
It is pleasant to have them in that
frame of mind.

It is said that the Four Hundred of

New York are making desperate attempts to learn how to say "Hoch!
Heinrich Hohenzollern" just as if it
came natural to them. Here is where
spades and beat them without half
trying.

The attempt to start the Ohio gubernatorial contest for 1903 before the
spring primaries are over is a trifle
premature. One political contest at a time is enough, even in this region of
perpetual politics.

There will be no difficulty in securing from the Colombian government all necessary rights for the Panama canal. A canal is quite as much in favor down in that country as it is up here.

WELLSVILLE PRIMARY

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE FIXES
DATE FOR FEB. 15.

Rates fixed for Candidates Likely to
at a Gov. Sum in the Treasury.

A public primary election will be held in Wellsville on the afternoon of February 15 between the hours of 1 and 7 o'clock. This decision was reached at a meeting of the Republican central committee in city hall last evening. Of the 15 committeemen Messrs. MacKenzie, Taylor, Ferguson, Ralston, Martin, White, Burchard, Halliday, Duncan, Donley, Raleigh and Fogo were present.

The committeemen decided that the candidates for the several municipal offices shall be assessed as follows: Mayor, $20; solicitor, $10; treasurer, $15; water works trustees, $10; street commissioner, $10; councilmen, $1; school board, $1; cemetery trustee, $1; assessor, $3. It is probable that there will be at least five candidates for each office, and if so the committeemen will have in their treasury $355—more money than they have had at their command for years.

Secretary Taylor was authorized to have a statement published to the effect that all entries must be made by 8 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, February 8. The entries must be accompanied by the assessment money. Other minor business was transacted by the committeemen, after which they adjourned to meet February 10.

WAGES ADVANCED

GOOD NEWS FOR THE C. & P.
SHOP EMPLOYEES.

New Scale of Wages Means From 10
to 65 Cents a Day More for Each Man.

The several hundred employees of the C. & P. company, working in the West End shops, were notified yesterday of a material advance in their wages. The laborers will each receive 10 cents more per day and the skilled workmen, according to ability, will receive from 10 cents to 65 cents more per day. The salaries of the office men will be raised nearly $15 per month and the foremen of the different departments will hereafter draw a stated salary.

The employees are much gratified over the advance, as it was entirely unsolicited. They account for it, judging that the company is in a very prosperous condition.

HORSES RAN AWAY

And a Heavily Loaded Wagon Passed
Over William Russell's Legs.

William Russell, a driver for the Smith & McNeil Pottery company, narrowly escaped serious injuries last evening. He was hauling clay from the depot when a stay chain worked loose. He was endeavoring to fasten it and was leaning over the front end of the wagon when the horses suddenly started, throwing him to the ground close to the heels of the horses.

The horses continued running and both the front and rear wheels passed over his legs. A crowd of people ran to his assistance, but they were not needed, for he jumped up and ran after the runaway team. It is strange how he escaped without broken legs, as the wagon and its contents weighed nearly 4,000 pounds.

UPWARD TURN OF PRICES.

Caused by Professional Operators
In the Stock Market,
Wednesday.

New York, Jan. 23.—The professional operators in the market made an upward turn of prices again Wednesday. The dullness of the market and the congestion of the scanty dealings into a few stocks clearly reflected the continued indifference of the outset public to the securities market and the abatement of the great banking interests which made the great bull markets of last year from any hand in the trading. Such narrow price movement as there was was pretty much wiped out in the closing dealings, and many stocks closed below Tuesday night. Metropolitan Street Railway was the central feature and moved up late in the day an extreme 3% on a volume of dealings very unusual for that stock. The gain on the day was 2%. Many rumors circulated to explain the movement, which were in general agreement as to a coming issue of stock with subscription rights to stockholders, but which varied greatly as to the use to be made of the proceeds of the stock sale. There was talk of a consolidation of all New York public utilities and of a centralization of the production of electric power for the benefit of all of them. The stock of other New York public utilities did not fully sympathize, and reacted sharply at the last. Advances of 5 points each in the Chicago and Northwestern stocks and 3% in Lackawanna were accompanied by rumors of a coming distribution of scrip. Sugar and Peoples Gas gained nearly a point at one time. This about exhausted the list of advances worthy of mention. The rain and snow in the winter wheat belt and the promised benefit to the crop were used by the traders as arguments for advancing railroad stocks. The character of a good part of the day's dealings was shown by the expressed expectations that the supreme court would clear up the Northern Securities question by a decision next Monday, which is merely the day set to hear arguments whether the proposed suit shall be entertained. There was recently some speculation in Erie shares, based on the assumption that the dividend on the first preferred was to be advanced to 4 per cent, but the conviction has been general for some weeks that the 3 per cent rate would not be changed, as proved to be the case Wednesday, with little effect on the stocks. The market closed dull and irregular.

The railroad bond market broadened out Wednesday, bringing forward many dormant mortgages into activity. The dealings in some of these, notably the Rock Island 4s and the Central of Georgia income bonds and consol 5s, were very heavy. There were advances ranging from 1 to 2 1/4 in the Rock Island 6s and 4s, the Oregon Short Line 6s, St. Louis and San Francisco 6s, New Jersey Central 5s, Peoria and Eastern incomes, Central of Georgia first, second and third incomes, the Chicago and Pacific division 6s, of the St. Paul and Texas and Pacific lists. Total sales, par value, $4,620,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

To Bar Opium For Smoking.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Senator Mason introduced a bill prohibiting the importation of opium for smoking purposes into the United States.

shall be had in accordance with the provisions of this supplemental election and other laws pertaining to registration in cities of the second class in said state; and the mode of conducting such elections in cities of the second class; and provided further that the registrations for the April elections be as provided in the general laws.

As was stated in the News Review several days ago the representatives from this county were loath to champion the act until such time as it was demonstrated that the people generally wanted registration. Owing to the additional expense involved, which will have to be borne by the community enjoying the system, it was thought advisable to first get the sentiment of the people upon the measure before taking it into the legislature. It will be noticed that in the bill proposed provision is made for the appointment of registration officers by the deputy supervisors of election of the county. The object is to do away with every item of expense possible, and by regulating the board in charge of the registration in the manner outlined, the plan will have been cheapened still more.

An effort was made to pass a motion permitting residents of the townships to vote at the precinct nearest their homes, but it failed, and all township voters will be required to deposit their ballots at the city hall.

A special from Columbus says: Representative Crist has been advised that the bill extending registration to the city of East Liverpool has been prepared by Prosecutor Jason H. Brookes. Mr. Crist has urged that it be placed in his hands as early as possible, so that he can introduce it before the calendar becomes congested, which condition is threatened. He is not apprehensive of its passage if it is introduced in proper time.

EXAMINE TRACTION INTERESTS.

Elkins-Widener Syndicate Has Eyes
on Everett-Moore Car Properties.

Cleveland, Jan. 23.—Representatives of the Elkins-Widener syndicate have examined all the traction interests of the Everett-Moore syndicate, with the object in view of purchasing the extensive railway interests, including the properties in this city. It is said that the representatives of the Elkins-Widener syndicate are very well satisfied with the physical condition of the traction lines, and consider it a desirable investment.

It is now practically settled that either the Federal Telephone system or the entire traction system will be sold in a lump. The sale of either property will eliminate the necessity of selling the other. Even if it is necessary to include in the deal the sale of the Cleveland Electric Railway company the principal local street car system will be made a part of the Everett-Moore traction properties.

Ptolemaeus Philopater, one of the ancient kings of Egypt, is said to have built a vessel 420 feet long, 56 feet broad, 72 feet high from the keel to the top of the prow and 80 feet to the top of the poop. She had four helms of 60 feet, her largest oars were 56 feet long, with leaden handles so as to be more easily worked. She had two prows, two sterns and seven rostra or beaks. On both poop and prow she had figures of men and animals that were fully 15 feet high. She had 4,000 rowers, 400 cabin boys or servants, 2,320 marines to do duty on deck, besides being provided with immense stores of arms and provisions.

Mayor, $20; solicitor, $10; treasurer,
$15; water works trustees, $10; street commissioner, $10; councilmen, $1;
school board, $1; cemetery trustee, $1; assessor, $3. It is probable that there will be at least five candidates for each office, and if so the committeemen will have in their treasury $355—more money than they have had at their command for years.
Secretary Taylor was authorized to have a statement published to the effect that all entries must be made by 8 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, February 8. The entries must be accompanied by the assessment money. Other minor business was transacted by the committeemen, after which they adjourned to meet February 10.

WAGES ADVANCED
GOOD NEWS FOR THE C. & P.
New Scale of Wages Means From 10
to 65 Cents a Day More for Each Man.

The several hundred employees of the C. & P. company, working in the West End shops, were notified yesterday of a material advance in their wages. The laborers will each receive 10 cents more per day and the skilled workmen, according to ability, will receive from 10 cents to 65 cents more per day. The salaries of the office men will be raised nearly $15 per month and the foremen of the different departments will hereafter draw a stated salary.
The employees are much gratified
over the advance, as it was entirely unsolicited. They account for it, judging that the company is in a very prosperous condition.

Over William Russell's Legs.
William Russell, a driver for the Smith & McNeil Pottery company, marvelously escaped serious injuries
last evening. He was hauling clay from the depot when a stay chain worked loose. He was endeavoring to fasten it and was leaning over the front end of the wagon when the horses suddenly started, throwing him to the ground close to the heels of the horses.
The horses continued running and both the front and rear wheels passed over his legs. A crowd of people ran to his assistance, but they were not needed, for he jumped up and ran after the runaway team. It is strange how he escaped without broken legs,
as the wagon and its contents weighed nearly 4,000 pounds.

UPWARD TURN OF PRICES.

Caused by Professional Operators
In the Stock Market,
Wednesday.

New York, Jan. 23.—The professional operators in the market made an upward turn of prices again Wednesday. The dullness of the market and the congestion of the scanty dealings into a few stocks clearly reflected the continued indifference of the outset public to the securities market and the abstention of the great banking interests which made the great bulk markets of last year from any hand in the trading. Such narrow price movement as there was was pretty much wiped out in the closing dealings, and many stocks closed below Tuesday night. Metropolitan Street Railway was the central feature and moved up late in the day an extreme 3% on a volume of dealings very unusual for that stock.
The gain on the day was 2%. Many rumors circulated to explain the movement, which were in general agreement as to a coming issue of stock with subscription rights to stockholders, but which varied greatly as to the use to be made of the proceeds of the stock sale. There was talk of a consolidation of all New York public utilities and of a centralization of the production of electric power for the benefit of all of them.
The stock of other New York public utilities did not fully sympathize, and reacted sharply at the last. Advances of 5 points each in the Chicago and Northwestern stocks and 3% in Lackawanna were accompanied by rumors of a coming distribution of scrip. Sugar and Peoples Gas gained nearly a point at one time. This about exhausts the list of advances worthy of mention. The rain and snow in the winter wheat belt and the promised benefit to the crop were used by the traders as arguments for advancing railroad stocks. The character of a good part of the day's dealings was shown by the expressed expectations that the supreme court would clear up the Northern Securities question by a decision next Monday, which is merely the day set to hear arguments whether the proposed suit shall be entertained. There was recently some speculation in Erie shares, based on the assumption that the dividend on the first preferred was to be advanced to 4 per cent, but the conviction has been general for some weeks that the 3 per cent rate would not be changed, as proved to be the case Wednesday, with little effect on the stocks. The market closed dull and irregular.

The railroad bond market broadened out Wednesday, bringing forward
many dormant mortgages into activity. The dealings in some of these, notably the Rock Island 4s and the Central of Georgia income bonds and consol 5s, were very heavy. There were advances ranging from 1 to 2 1/4 in the Rock Island 6s and 4s, the Oregon Short Line 6s, St. Louis and San Francisco 6s, New Jersey Central 5s, Peoria and Eastern incomes, Central of Georgia first, second and third incomes, the Chicago and Pacific division 6s, of the St. Paul and Texas and Pacific lists. Total sales, par value, $4,620,000.
United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

shall be had in accordance with the provisions of this supplemental election and other laws pertaining to registration in cities of the second class
in said state; and the mode of conducting such elections in cities of the second class; and provided further that the registrations for the April elections be as provided in the general laws.

As was stated in the News Review
several days ago the representatives from this county were loath to champion the act until such time as it was demonstrated that the people generally wanted registration. Owing to the additional expense involved, which will have to be borne by the community enjoying the system, it was thought advisable to first get the sentiment of the people upon the measure before taking it into the legislature. It will be noticed that in the bill proposed provision is made for the appointment of registration officers by the deputy supervisors of election of the county. The object is to do away with every item of expense possible, and by regulating the board in charge of the registration in the manner outlined, the plan will have been cheapened still more.

An effort was made to pass a motion permitting residents of the townships to vote at the precinct nearest their homes, but it failed, and all township voters will be required to deposit their ballots at the city hall.
A special from Columbus says: Representative Crist has been advised that the bill extending registration to the city of East Liverpool has been prepared by Prosecutor Jason H.
Brookes. Mr. Crist has urged that it be placed in his hands as early as possible, so that he can introduce it before the calendar becomes congested, which condition is threatened. He is not apprehensive of its passage if it is introduced in proper time.

EXAMINE TRACTION INTERESTS.

Elkins-Widener Syndicate Has Eyes
on Everett-Moore Car Properties.

Cleveland, Jan. 23.—Representatives of the Elkins-Widener syndicate have examined all the traction interests of the Everett-Moore syndicate, with the object in view of purchasing the extensive railway interests, including the properties in this city.
It is said that the representatives of the Elkins-Widener syndicate are very well satisfied with the physical condition of its traction lines, and consider it a desirable investment.

It is now practically settled that either the Federal Telephone system or the entire traction system will be sold in a lump. The sale of either property will eliminate the necessity of selling the other. Even if it is necessary to include in the deal the sale of the Cleveland Electric Railway company the principal local street car system will be made a part of the Everett-Moore traction properties.

CHAPTER V.

THE PATIENT AT ST. WINIFRED'S.

ON the way to St. Winifred's with Brenda, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Haggerty exerted themselves to be entertaining. By way of opening a conversation and showing that personal interest which a lady always appreciates Mr. Barnes mentioned the singular circumstance that he happened to know a man who had seen Miss MacLane that afternoon. He wondered whether Miss MacLane could guess where it was that this man had seen her. Upon Brenda's acknowledging that she was unable to solve this riddle Mr. Barnes kindly gave her a clue.

"If you could remember where you were at precisely ten minutes to 3," he said, "why, that would settle it."

Brenda smiled at the great astuteness of Mr. Barnes, but she declined to be led into a review of her movements that afternoon. Mr. Haggerty then struck into the conversation with the remark that it was curious how people could forget where they had been, and he instanced the case of a young lady who had lost an excellent alibi in a criminal affair through the error of not taking the police into her confidence at an early stage of the proceedings, while the facts were fresh in her mind. Brenda suggested that perhaps the lady did not fully trust the police, whereupon Mr. Barnes asserted warmly that that was the greatest mistake possible to a human being.

At the hospital it became immediately evident that Barnes and Haggerty had encountered a mysterious and formidable obstacle. They were about to accompany Brenda into the reception room, and she had begun to fear that they might never leave her while she remained in the building, but for some inscrutable reason they vanished, and Brenda's last glimpse showed them obviously crestfallen.

She had been somewhat lightened in spirits by the absurd comedy played by these dull witted men. It had ended, however, and the real significance of the drama again asserted itself.

The reception room of St. Winifred's is lofty and bare, and there was a chill air in it even on that sultry June evening. Brenda observed that the place inspired her two companions with a vague terror. The maid was seized with a visible trembling, and the stalwart James shifted his heavily shod feet upon the floor, arousing singularly loud echoes that seemed to affect him unpleasantly.

The attendant who had shown them in returned after some minutes' absence with two men, one of whom Brenda had seen in the hall as they entered. He was the typical hospital physician of the popular conception. Brenda noted only that he wore spectacles and that his upper lip was very thin and rigid. In his companion Brenda was rejoiced to recognize a young doctor of her acquaintance, Sumner Kendall. She advanced hastily, with extended hand.

"Dr. Kendall," she exclaimed, "I had no idea you were connected with St. Winifred's. I have come to see Miss Miller. Is she conscious? What has she said?"

The physician seemed to be laboring under considerable embarrassment. He took Brenda's hand with a quick, nervous movement, and he clasped it harder than the forms of polite society permit. But he did not meet the young lady's eye.

"Miss MacLane" she cried in a weak voice.

"Our patient is conscious," he said. "She has an excellent chance of recovery. Indeed under ordinary circumstances there would be small cause for alarm. To our great surprise, we find that she does not know who inflicted the wound. It may be only a lapse of memory due to shock, but I myself fear that she will never be able to answer the question."

"She does not know?" echoed Brenda. "You must understand," said Kendall, "that the assailant stood behind her. He, whoever it may have been, is supposed to have entered the room while Miss Miller was out on the balcony. I have had the place accurately described to me. In the corner of the room near the eastern window there is quite a large closet. Perhaps you noticed it."

Brenda inclined her head. "The assassin may have hidden himself there," Kendall continued. "Miss Miller remembers stepping into the room through that eastern window, and she knows nothing of what happened between that moment and the time of her awakening here."

"She will live," said Brenda. "She will remember some day." "She can never remember what she did not observe," replied Kendall. "It may be that she neither saw nor heard the assassin. As to the wound, I hardly know what to say. The knife entered between the first and second ribs and passed downward very close to the body wall. Ordinarily it would be almost impossible to inflict such a wound. The assassin must have been singularly ignorant of anatomy to strike downward at such a spot, for the chances were a thousand to one that the bony structure would protect the vital parts. The knife should have cleared the first rib and hit fairly against the second. It happens that Miss Miller received an injury on this precise spot years ago, as a result of which the first rib is somewhat depressed. Thus the murderer was favored by an extraordinary chance. His idea was, first, to escape being seen by her, and second, to strike at the front of the body while standing behind in order to avoid the blood that must follow the blow. Having struck, he undoubtedly supposed that he had reached the heart, and only a miracle prevented. Our ambulance surgeon believed that the wall of the heart was punctured and that a clot of blood was stopping the wound, as happens once in a million times. That is not the case. Not only did the knife miss the heart, but it missed the arteries in a way that only divine Providence can account for. So the first effusion of blood was not followed by the fatal drain that might have been expected. Do I make myself clear?"

"I understand enough," said Brenda. "I know that she may recover, and I thank God with all my soul."

There was a pause, during which Kendall's embarrassment, that had been less noticeable while his mind was bent upon a description of Elsie's injury, once more asserted itself. Brenda observed that his face was flushed and his forehead moist, and she was puzzled.

"Have you told her that I am here?" she asked. "Does she wish to see me?"

"We have not mentioned it," he replied, "but you need have no hesitation. We have given her a very nice room." He hurried on. "You'll find that everything in the world is being done for her. Shall we go in?"

The other physician then came forward, and Brenda gave him her hand,

though Kendall, in the extremity of his embarrassment, forgot to utter the form of presentation.

A straight and long corridor, the longest, as it seemed to Brenda, that mortal architect had ever designed, led rearward to the part of the building in which Miss Miller had been sequestered. Kendall led the way, and his colleague walked behind. For the third time that day Brenda experienced the sensation of surrendering her volition. The hospital became a prison; she was being marched to some deep cell beyond the reach of rescue or the light of day. Then, in a moment, she saw Dr. Kendall open a door and step back that she might pass before him.

Brenda's first glance happened to fall directly upon the face of the patient, and she cannot truly be said to have seen anything else in the room. The bed was only an indistinct splash of white. The bare walls, the plainly curtained window, the nurse in profile, motionless as a figure on tapestry, entered into the feeling, but not into the view of the scene. She beheld only that sweet and sad little face, so pretty, so maidenly and tender. And the real essence of this despicable crime, the inconceivable inhumanity of it, seemed to speak straight to Brenda's heart in that language of nature which is without words.

Elsie's brown eyes opened wide. They had been half closed, and she had been looking at heaven knows what; nothing in that room surely, nothing that ever had been anywhere perhaps. They turned to Brenda with utter surprise.

"Miss MacLane!" she cried in a weak voice, but distinct as the tone of a little silver bell. "You have come to see me! How kind of you!" Then suddenly, "Why did you do it?"

Brenda sank upon her knees beside the bed and took Elsie's hand.

"It was an impulse—a mere impulse," she said; "but I am very glad I came. I am so sorry for you. I am a good nurse. I have been taught. Will you let me stay here with you until you are well?"

Two tears gathered in Elsie's eyes and glided slowly down her cheeks. Her lip quivered like a child's.

"I shan't get well," she said. "I don't want to."

And then the tears came very fast.

CHAPTER VI.

AN ARGUMENT FOR THE DEFENSE.

WHEN one is in the valley of the shadow, age and experience may furnish many reasons for desiring to go farther in preference to returning. As a rule, however, these reasons are swallowed up in the instinct of living and in the interest one takes in one's own struggle with the dark angel. A physician will hear many people say that they do not wish to recover, but most of them will wait until after the danger is over before giving utterance to words which the supernal powers may take too seriously.

Dr. Kendall was not in the least prepared to hear such an expression from this particular patient. He would have said that she was one who enjoyed life, every minute of it. Certainly she was as full of natural vitality as a young fawn in the woods. Plainly Brenda was at least as much surprised as Kendall, and the physician awaited her response with critical interest. "You know that I want you to stay," said Elsie. "It was very, very good of you to come, and I thank you truly." "Such being the case," replied Brenda, "I am going to fix your hair. One moment, while I make myself ready. And now," she added, "don't move; not a muscle. See, I can reach it without the slightest trouble."

And with cool and steady hands she arranged the brown masses in which there lurked a strange glow like red gold in the sun. It was cleverly done. Elsie felt the caressing hands, but they were so deft that not a tremor reached the wound. Dr. Kendall, observing closely, nodded his head as one who considers a question satisfactorily settled.

"For Mr. Alden? Yes," replied Kendall.

"What did you tell her?" "We said that he had sent all sorts of kind messages and that he received constant reports from us, but that she must not ask to see him before tomorrow."

"Did she plead to see him at once?" asked Brenda.

Kendall hesitated for a moment while they were passing silently out of the room.

"Miss Miller is a very obedient patient," he said. "No one could give less trouble."

"Well?" rejoined Brenda. "Please proceed."

"I don't quite understand."

"You have something more to say."

"It occurred to me," said Kendall slowly, "that she exhibited less anxiety to see Mr. Alden than I should have expected."

This statement seemed to furnish Brenda with abundant food for thought. She said nothing as they traversed the long corridor, and Kendall also was silent. After Brenda had sent the message to her father she conferred with Kendall in regard to her remaining in the hospital as Elsie's nurse and then dispatched her maid under James' escort for such things as she would need.

CHAPTER V.

THE PATIENT AT ST. WINIFRED'S.

On the way to St. Winifred's with Brenda Mr. Barnes and Mr. Haggerty exerted themselves to be entertaining. By way of opening a conversation and showing that personal interest which a lady always appreciates Mr. Barnes mentioned the singular circumstance that he happened to know a man who had seen Miss MacLane that afternoon. He wondered whether Miss MacLane could guess where it was that this man had seen her. Upon Brenda's acknowledging that she was unable to solve this riddle Mr. Barnes kindly gave her a clue.

Brenda smiled at the great astuteness of Mr. Barnes, but she declined to be led into a review of her movements that afternoon. Mr. Haggerty then struck into the conversation with the remark that it was curious how people could forget where they had been, and he instanced the case of a young lady who had lost an excellent alibi in a criminal affair through the error of not taking the police into her confidence at an early stage of the proceedings, while the facts were fresh in her mind. Brenda suggested that perhaps the lady did not fully trust the police, whereupon Mr. Barnes asserted warmly that that was the greatest mistake possible to a human being.

At the hospital it became immediately evident that Barnes and Haggerty had encountered a mysterious and formidable obstacle. They were about to accompany Brenda into the reception room, and she had begun to fear that they might never leave her while she remained in the building, but for some inscrutable reason they vanished, and Brenda's last glimpse showed them obviously crestfallen.

She had been somewhat lightened in spirits by the absurd comedy played by these dull witted men. It had ended, however, and the real significance of the drama again asserted itself.

The reception room of St. Winifred's is lofty and bare, and there was a chill air in it even on that sultry June evening. Brenda observed that the place inspired her two companions with a vague terror. The maid was seized with a visible trembling, and the stalwart James shifted his heavily soiled feet upon the floor, arousing singularly loud echoes that seemed to affect him unpleasantly.

The attendant who had shown them in returned after some minutes' absence with two men, one of whom Brenda had seen in the hall as they entered. He was the typical hospital physician of the popular conception. Brenda noted only that he wore spectacles and that his upper lip was very thin and rigid. In his companion Brenda was rejoiced to recognize a young doctor of her acquaintance, Sumner Kendall. She advanced hastily, with extended hand.

"Dr. Kendall," she exclaimed, "I had no idea you were connected with St. Winifred's. I have come to see Miss Miller. Is she conscious? What has she said?"

The physician seemed to be laboring under considerable embarrassment. He took Brenda's hand with a quick, nervous movement, and he clasped it harder than the forms of polite society permit. But he did not meet the young lady's eye.

"Our patient is conscious," he said. "She has an excellent chance of recovery. Indeed under ordinary circumstances there would be small cause for alarm. To our great surprise, we find that she does not know who inflicted the wound. It may be only a lapse of memory due to shock, but I myself fear that she will never be able to answer the question."

"She does not know?" echoed Brenda. "You must understand," said Kendall, "that the assailant stood behind her. He, whoever it may have been, is supposed to have entered the room while Miss Miller was out on the balcony. I have had the place accurately described to me. In the corner of the room near the eastern window there is quite a large closet. Perhaps you noticed it."

Brenda inclined her head. "The assassin may have hidden himself there," Kendall continued. "Miss Miller remembers stepping into the room through that eastern window, and she knows nothing of what happened between that moment and the time of her awakening here."

"She will live," said Brenda. "She will remember some day."

"She can never remember what she did not observe," replied Kendall. "It may be that she neither saw nor heard the assassin. As to the wound, I hardly know what to say. The knife entered between the first and second ribs and passed downward very close to the body wall. Ordinarily it would be almost impossible to inflict such a spot. The assassin must have been singularly ignorant of anatomy to strike downward at such a spot, for the chances were a thousand to one that the bony structure would protect the vital parts. The knife should have cleared the first rib and hit fairly against the second. It is a pity that Miss Miller received an injury on this precise spot years ago, as a result of which the first rib is somewhat depressed. Thus the murderer was favored by an extraordinary chance. His idea was, first, to escape being seen by her, and, second, to strike at the front of the body while standing behind in order to avoid the blood that must follow the blow. Having struck, he undoubtedly supposed that he had reached the heart, and only a miracle prevented. Our ambulance surgeon believed that the wall of the heart was punctured and that a clot of blood was stopping the wound, as happens once in a million times. That is not the case. Not only did the knife miss the heart, but it missed the arteries in a way that only divine Providence can account for. So the first effusion of blood was not followed by the fatal drain that might have been expected. Do I make myself clear?"

"I understand enough," said Brenda. "I know that she may recover, and I thank God with all my soul."

There was a pause, during which Kendall's embarrassment, that had been less noticeable while his mind was bent upon a description of Elsie's injury, once more asserted itself. Brenda observed that his face was flushed and his forehead moist, and she was puzzled.

"Have you told her that I am here?" she asked. "Does she wish to see me?" "We have not mentioned it," he replied, "but you need have no hesitation. We have given her a very nice room," he hurried on. "You'll find that everything in the world is being done for her. Shall we go in?"

The other physician then came forward, and Brenda gave him her hand,

though Kendall, in the extremity of his embarrassment, forgot to utter the form of presentation.

A straight and long corridor, the longest, as it seemed to Brenda, that mortal architect had ever designed, led rearward to the part of the building in which Miss Miller had been sequestered. Kendall led the way, and his colleague walked behind. For the third time that day Brenda experienced the sensation of surrendering her volition. The hospital became a prison; she was being marched to some deep cell beyond the reach of rescue or the light of day. Then, in a moment, she saw Dr. Kendall open a door and step back that she might pass before him.

Brenda's first glance happened to fall directly upon the face of the patient, and she cannot truly be said to have seen anything else in the room. The bed was only an indistinct splash of white. The bare walls, the plainly curtained window, the nurse in profile, motionless as a figure on tapestry, entered into the feeling, but not into the view of the scene. She beheld only that sweet and sad little face, so pretty, so maidenly and tender. And the real essence of this despicable crime, the inconceivable inhumanity of it, seemed to speak straight to Brenda's heart in that language of nature which is without words.

Elsie's brown eyes opened wide. They had been half closed, and she had been looking at heaven knows what; nothing in that room surely, nothing that ever had been anywhere perhaps. They turned to Brenda with utter surprise.

"Miss MacLane!" she cried in a weak voice, but distinct as the tone of a little silver bell. "You have come to see me! How kind of you!" Then suddenly, "Why did you do it?"

Brenda sank upon her knees beside the bed and took Elsie's hand.

"It was an impulse—a mere impulse," she said; "but I am very glad I came. I am so sorry for you. I am a good nurse. I have been taught. Will you let me stay here with you until you are well?"

Two tears gathered in Elsie's eyes and glided slowly down her cheeks. Her lip quivered like a child's.

And then the tears came very fast.

CHAPTER VI.

AN ARGUMENT FOR THE DEFENSE.

WHEN one is in the valley of the shadow, age and experience may furnish many reasons for desiring to go farther in preference to returning.

As a rule, however, these reasons are swallowed up in the instinct of living and in the interest one takes in one's own struggle with the dark angel. A physician will hear many people say that they do not wish to recover, but most of them will wait until after the danger is over before giving utterance to words which the supernal powers may take too seriously.

Dr. Kendall was not in the least prepared to hear such an expression from this particular patient. He would have said that she was one who enjoyed life, every minute of it. Certainly she was as full of natural vitality as a young fawn in the woods. Plainly Brenda was at least as much surprised as Kendall, and the physician awaited her response with critical interest. If she should ask an explanation or offer an argument, it would show that she had not the instinct of the nurse. It was in the nature of an examination, and Brenda passed it with great credit.

"Miss MacLane, the patient is in your hands. I shall expect her to be playing golf in about a week. It won't be necessary for you to assist me any further, Dr. Johnson," he continued, addressing his colleague. "I will join you in my room."

Dr. Johnson bowed and withdrew. Dr. Kendall took a seat by the bed, and without appearing to do anything particularly important he determined with great thoroughness the condition of his patient. Not all that he observed would be comprehensible by a layman. The most conspicuous feature in the case was the improvement of Elsie's spirits. In tepee life the Indian child is unique. It is given nothing to play with except the toads that hop about the tepee doors. If it cries, no one comes to sooth it. So crying has come to be almost unknown among these children.

CONSTIPATION "I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in this terrible condition; during that time I did everything I heard of but never found any relief, such was my case until I began using CASTOR OIL. I now have from one to three passages a day, and if I was rich I would give $100.00 for each movement; it is such a relief."

Nerve Slavery.

It is present-day conditions—heaping burdens of work upon the nervous system that tells the story—premature breaking up of health.

It tells why so many men and women, who so far as age in years is concerned, should be in the prime of health, find themselves letting go of the strength, the power, the vitality they once possessed. It is because that great motor power of the body, nerve force, is impaired. Every organ depends upon its controlling power just as much as the engine depends upon the steam to put it into action. An engine won't go without steam. Neither will the heart, the brain, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach act right without their proper nerve force supply. Let any organ be lacking in this essential and troubles begin—some of them are:

Throbbing, palpitating heart. Sleepless nights. Sudden startings. Morning languor. Brain fog.

Inability to work or think. Exhaustion on exertion. Flagging appetite. Digestion slow. Food heavy.

Easily excited, nervous, irritable. Strength fails. Loss of flesh and muscular power. Settled melancholia. Utter despondency.

A picture, hideous, but easily changed to one of brightness by use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. They build up the nerves and supply nerve force.

LATE AND IMPORTANT PHASES OF CHILD STUDY.

A. SCOTT, PH. D., Psychology and Child Study
Columbia Normal School.

VI.—The Deeper Phases of Fatigue.

THE deeper phases of fatigue are not in most cases simply a result of excessive work, and what is excessive work for one may be merely play for another. Given a well balanced, properly nourished, healthy individual, and it is marvelous to observe the intense and varied intellectual and emotional activities of which he is capable. Nothing that he can do in a normal environment has the effect of producing fatigue, for, like a compensating pendulum, with the normal fatigue of one set of organs or group of ideas and their consequent diminished activity, other capacities, including those devoted to elimination and repair, automatically take their place. Ultimately sound sleep ensues, and health and vigor are renewed.

Unfortunately for some individuals, the power of such natural recuperation is lessened. This is partly due to the fact that sleep, like other activities, requires the outlay of nervous energy. The circulation of the brain is changed and with it the distribution of the blood in other portions of the body. The large venous sinuses at the outlet of the brain are clogged with blood and press upon the tissues. The capillary circulation is on the whole diminished. Just the way this comes about is not so certain. We know that the activity of the brain at first increases the action of the heart, but, as Binet shows, if continued, decreases it. This tends to dam up blood in the nervous system and thus fill the cerebral sinuses and empty the arteries; but, whatever the starting point, it requires the action of the nervous centers devoted to the circulation. They must be "set" in a certain way and have the power to continue this "set" for a sufficient length of time.

In many cases sleep is cut short because these centers, found largely in the medulla, but also distributed throughout other portions of the nervous system, are themselves fatigued or weakened. The individual wakes up not perfectly restored. There has not been a sufficient accumulation of energy, and before the day is over the limit of normal fatigue will have been passed.

At this point two things may happen. The individual may feel sleepy and find himself refreshed if he takes a nap. A habit of this kind, exclusive of the periods of early childhood and of old age, destroys the natural rhythm of waking and rest, which is adjusted in normal individuals to the stimulus of day and the quiet of night. The individual is to some extent out of harmony with his environment. He is a less capable accumulator and producer of energy.

The other alternative is that he oversteps the limit of normal fatigue. The brain cells, which are not functioning easily, are stimulated in various ways, and instead of becoming tired the individual becomes excited. The way in which this comes about depends to some extent upon the structure of the brain. One part of this organ is capable of stirring up another part. An illustration of this may be seen in the following experiment: Not long ago I asked a lady to register the number of pounds she was able to squeeze on a dynamometer. After taking note of the amount I asked her to recite a piece of poetry, which she did with a good deal of spirit. I then asked her to squeeze again. She was able to exert a pressure of 20 pounds more than before.

A decided increase of this kind is found with about half of several hundred people I have tested. While a certain amount of synergical action of this kind is only an evidence of a lively temperament and a properly working brain, too much of it comes from a condition of irritable nervous weakness or chronic fatigue. Here finds that such excessive reaction is most frequent in individuals suffering from neurasthenia, or hysteria. Clouston points out that this overexcitement, when in a social field, often called "keeping up," or will power, is an indication of a faulty brain.

Besides the excessive stirring up of one part of the brain by another, persons with tendencies to overfatigue frequently use material stimulants, such as alcohol, cocaine, opium, morphine, tobacco, tea and coffee. The two latter are often used to excess by children. These act in two ways. At first, but only for a short time, they call out more energy. Reaction time is lessened. After this initial effect reaction time is increased, although the individual is generally under the illusion that he is more energetic. As with other morbid influences, the finest reactions suffer first. The most delicate avenues of energy, which normally contribute the final control to the whole activity, are first impaired. As a result the coarser movements and expressions have fuller sway. The work accomplished is, however, actually less, as it is less perfectly directed.

The finest reactions suffer first in their sensitive as well as their motor aspects. Thus it comes that under the secondary effects of stimulants the individual is not conscious of fatigue. The capacity which should appreciate this delicately is benumbed, poisoned by the overwork due to the initial effects of stimulation and the presence of the innutritious material.

When the conditions of brain activity are defective from whatever cause, we observe the results of fatigue more quickly. Janet gives the case of a girl with whom there was no history of alcohol or drug poisoning. She would take a book and begin to read, succeeding very well for a couple of minutes. She would then complain that her eyes hurt her. She would try again, but could not see and felt as if she were in darkness. This blindness lasted for one or two minutes, when she could again read about as long as before. No defect was discovered in her eyes. The trouble was central, pertaining to the brain, and depended upon fatigue of the attention. This was shown by the fact that she could easily read aloud as long as she did not need to pay attention to what she read. Her eyes did not even become tired. She was, of course, not able to tell anything of what she had read.

Very particular aboulia was not the only trouble with this girl. She fatigued easily in every direction requiring activity of the upper brain centers. Even when she did pay attention for a short time it was limited in amount or range. Certain sensations and even movements were constantly neglected. Whenever she attempted to "pay attention" there would be produced the most extraordinary grimaces, ties, convulsive jerks, etc., to which she was entirely oblivious at the time, and of which she had no remembrance afterward. As she increased her attention to the matter in hand she lost it with respect to these movements. Her ability to co-ordinate her sensations was thus less than with people in a normal condition. With school children the automatisms, the moving of feet, knitting of eyebrows, twiddling with buttons, wriggling, etc., characteristic of them when reciting, are in many cases only less pronounced instances of a similar state of affairs.

In some cases these automatic or subconscious movements are capable of direction by some one else. A hospital interne concentrated his attention to such a degree when he was playing cards that, as his companions found, he could, without knowing it, repeat all sorts of words if they were said quietly and without attracting his attention. Another instance is that of a lady whose attention is engaged by conversation or a problem in mental arithmetic. A pen is slipped into her hand, which rests on a sheet of paper. A question is now whispered or spoken quietly in her ear, to which she is asked to write an answer. She does so, and does not know afterward that she has written or even that she was asked a question. The answers sometimes involve matters which she has forgotten when asked to recall by the ordinary processes of attention.

The order in which the personal perception is lessened, whether owing to fatigue or constitutional defect, is found to be in most cases inversely proportional to the importance of the sensation or other experience, as estimated by the individual concerned. Thus the left eye and the left side of the body generally become insensitive before the right. The sensations connected with defecation, e. g., are not felt to be important and are very early neglected in the downward path of fatigue. Insensitivity in this respect leads to constipation and all the evils which follow in its train. Dropping of or lessened sensitivity to sensations of taste and smell is also frequent and occurs on slight occasions. Following this, hunger sensations are neglected. When the personal perception of the individual is invaded by such lack of sensitivities, food becomes repulsive and starvation and denutrition ensue, resulting in some cases even in death. The food repulsions and partial anorexia, as well as the unnatural appetites for slate pencils, chalk, etc., of some children are slight manifestations of similar tendencies.

Sollier maintains with a great degree of probability that individuals suffering from a marked lessening of personal perception are in reality partly asleep. Only a certain number of the brain cells which should act in a healthy waking subject are in these cases called into play. This condition is frequently reversed at night, and the neurons which were asleep in the day are now awake. Such people sometimes lie all night with their eyes open or get

The Tariff Concessions She Implores, Writes Mr. Cleveland.

Every Patriotic Citizen Cannot but Recognize the Source of the Opposition—Obligations Forcibly Defined by Roosevelt in His Message.

York, Pa., Jan. 23.—A. B. Farquhar, of this city, the head of the Farquhar agricultural works, and prominent in national Democratic affairs, has received a letter from ex-President Cleveland, in reply to one sent him by Mr. Farquhar relative to the relations of the United States with Cuba. It was dated Westland, Princeton, N. J., Jan. 21, and said in part:

"The arguments used in opposition to the tariff concessions she implores, based upon our material interests, are fallacious, mistaken and misleading, while their source and the agencies of their propagation and spread cannot fail to be recognized by every honest, patriotic citizen with shame and humiliation.

up and wander around, but know nothing of this when the daytime comes and may even say they have slept soundly. The normal monarchical constitution of the personal perception has become divided into two centers of perception, each of which is largely independent of the other. Sometimes it even happens that the less usual of these personal syntheses is the larger and more competent. Cases are on record where an individual has been placed in a constant state of somnambulism much to his advantage in his adjustment to the environment and his success in life.

The steps toward such abnormal conditions are usually indicated by an increasing inability to fatigue. Even with normal people overfatigue results in a lessened personal perception which differs only in degree and in a greater capacity to recover from the cases of hysteria we have just been considering. Even when nervous exhaustion is decidedly constitutional or hereditary overfatigue only aggravates the conditions. Children who suffer from a tendency in this direction should be recognized as early in life as possible. This is important both for their present work and their future prospects.

SHORT MANY THOUSANDS?

Such a Report About a Packing Co. Official, Who Resigned.

Cincinnati, Jan. 23.—Sensational reports were published here of an alleged shortage in the books of Theodore Braemer, who resigned last Sunday his position as secretary and treasurer of the J. and F. Schroth Packing company, of this city. The story, as first published, alleged a shortage of from $160,000 to $400,000, extending over a period of 20 years, and claimed that Mr. Braemer had turned over all his property and chattels in trust, pending an examination of the books by experts.

Braemer denied that there was any defalcation, but admitted that he had turned $72,000 in personal property over to Harlan Cleveland, his attorney, and Joseph W. O'Hara, attorney for the Schroth company. While Braemer talked freely about the case, the Schroths refused to say anything, and the attorneys were also reticent.

Will Not Investigate Books.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The miners' investigating committee, it was thought last night, will probably be ready with its report this morning, the report to be followed by the election of officers. A member of the committee said last night that the committee had decided to investigate only the charges made on the floor of the convention against Mitchell and Wilson, with the evidence adduced in the convention, and would make no examination of the books of the order to ascertain what they showed as to the shortage of ex-Secretary-Treasurer Pearce. Patrick Dolan, of Pennsylvania, is a member of the committee.

From People You Know—From East Liverpool Citizens.

The greatest skeptic can hardly fail to be convinced in the face of evidence like this. It is impossible to produce better proof of merit than the testimony of residents of East Liverpool, of people who can be seen at any time. Read the following case of it:

Mr. P. J. Green, veterinary surgeon, says: "When attending a sick horse belonging to Mr. G. H. Gardiner, of 168 Jackson street, he remarked to me that the horse seemed to be in pain. I replied that I was the sicker of the two, as I could at that time scarcely straighten up with my back from lameness, weakness and severe pains. He asked me what my symptoms were and I explained to him that I had suffered for a number of years from my kidneys, that I had attacks at times when nothing helped me, and it was agony to get around, but that I could not endure idleness. The secretions from the kidneys were very high colored and acidulous; that I had spells of dizziness when I could see black specks floating before my eyes and felt generally broken up. He looked up and said he had the very thing I needed to cure me in his house—Doan's Kidney Pills. He went into the house and brought me eight pills. I took them with me and I used them two at a dose. The effect was astonishing. I felt it almost at once, and went to the W. & W. pharmacy and bought a box and took them. The encouragement held out to me by the first eight pills was not mythical, as by their continued use the improvement continued and I consider no expression of praise too strong for Doan's Kidney Pills; in short, they are ne plus ultra."

While a certain amount of synergical action of this kind is only an evidence of a lively temperament and a properly working brain, too much of it comes from a condition of irritable nervous weakness or chronic fatigue. Here finds that such excessive reaction is most frequent in individuals suffering from neurasthenia, or hysteria. Clouston points out that this overexcitement, when in a social field, often called "keeping up," or will power, is an indication of a faulty brain.

Besides the excessive stirring up of one part of the brain by another, persons with tendencies to overfatigue frequently use material stimulants, such as alcohol, cocaine, opium, morphine, tobacco, tea and coffee. The two latter are often used to excess by children. These act in two ways. At first, but only for a short time, they call out more energy. Reaction time is lessened. After this initial effect reaction time is increased, although the individual is generally under the illusion that he is more energetic. As with other morbid influences, the finest reactions suffer first. The most delicate avenues of energy, which normally contribute the final control to the whole activity, are first impaired. As a result the coarser movements and expressions have fuller sway. The work accomplished is, however, actually less, as it is less perfectly directed.

The finest reactions suffer first in their sensitive as well as their motor aspects. Thus it comes that under the secondary effects of stimulants the individual is not conscious of fatigue. The capacity which should appreciate this delicately is benumbed, poisoned by the overwork due to the initial effects of stimulation and the presence of the innutritious material.

When the conditions of brain activity are defective from whatever cause, we observe the results of fatigue more quickly. Janet gives the case of a girl with whom there was no history of alcohol or drug poisoning. She would take a book and begin to read, succeeding very well for a couple of minutes. She would then complain that her eyes hurt her. She would try again, but could not see and felt as if she were in darkness. This blindness lasted for one or two minutes, when she could again read about as long as before. No defect was discovered in her eyes. The trouble was central, pertaining to the brain, and depended upon fatigue of the attention. This was shown by the fact that she could easily read aloud as long as she did not need to pay attention to what she read. Her eyes did not even become tired. She was, of course, not able to tell anything of what she had read.

The particular aboulia was not the only trouble with this girl. She fatigued easily in every direction requiring activity of the upper brain centers. Even when she did pay attention for a short time it was limited in amount or range. Certain sensations and even movements were constantly neglected. Whenever she attempted to "pay attention" there would be produced the most extraordinary grimaces, tics, convulsive jerks, etc., to which she was entirely oblivious at the time, and of which she had no remembrance afterward. As she increased her attention to the matter in hand she lost it with respect to these movements. Her ability to co-ordinate her sensations was thus less than with people in a normal condition. With school children the automatisms, the moving of feet, knitting of eyebrows, twiddling with buttons, wriggling, etc., characteristic of them when reciting, are in many cases only less pronounced instances of a similar state of affairs.

In some cases these automatic or subconscious movements are capable of direction by some one else. A hospital interne concentrated his attention to such a degree when he was playing cards that, as his companions found, he could, without knowing it, repeat all sorts of words if they were said quietly and without attracting his attention. Another instance is that of a lady whose attention is engaged by conversation or a problem in mental arithmetic. A pen is slipped into her hand, which rests on a sheet of paper. A question is now whispered or spoken quietly in her ear, to which she is asked to write an answer. She does so, and does not know afterward that she has written or even that she was asked a question. The answers sometimes involve matters which she has forgotten when asked to recall by the ordinary processes of attention.

The order in which the personal perception is lessened, whether owing to fatigue or constitutional defect, is found to be in most cases inversely proportional to the importance of the sensation or other experience, as estimated by the individual concerned. Thus the left eye and the left side of the body generally become insensitive before the right. The sensations connected with defecation, e. g., are not felt to be important and are very early neglected in the downward path of fatigue. Insensitivity in this respect leads to constipation and all the evils which follow in its train. Dropping of or lessened sensitivity to sensations of taste and smell is also frequent and occurs on slight occasions. Following this, hunger sensations are neglected. When the personal perception of the individual is invaded by such lack of sensitivities, food becomes repulsive and starvation and denaturation ensue, resulting in some cases even in death. The food repulsions and partial anorexias, as well as the unnatural appetites for slate pencils, chalk, etc., of some children are slight manifestations of similar tendencies.

Sollier maintains with a great degree of probability that individuals suffering from a marked lessening of personal perception are in reality partly asleep. Only a certain number of the brain cells which should act in a healthy waking subject are in these cases called into play. This condition is frequently reversed at night, and the neurons which were asleep in the day are now awake. Such people sometimes lie all night with their eyes open or get

The Tariff Concessions She Implores, Writes Mr.
Cleveland.

Every Patriotic Citizen Cannot but Recognize the Source of the Opposition—Obligations Forcibly Defined by Roosevelt in His Message.

York, Pa., Jan. 23.—A. B. Farquhar, of this city, the head of the Farquhar agricultural works, and prominent in national Democratic affairs, has received a letter from ex-President Cleveland, in reply to one sent him by Mr. Farquhar relative to the relations of the United States with Cuba. It was dated Westland, Princeton, N. J., Jan. 21, and said in part:

"The arguments used in opposition to the tariff concessions she implores, based upon our material interests, are fallacious, mistaken and misleading, while their source and the agencies of their propagation and spread cannot fail to be recognized by every honest, patriotic citizen with shame and humiliation.

up and wander around, but know nothing of this when the daytime comes and may even say they have slept soundly. The normal monarchical constitution of the personal perception has become divided into two centers of perception, each of which is largely independent of the other. Sometimes it even happens that the less usual of these personal syntheses is the larger and more competent. Cases are on record where an individual has been placed in a constant state of somnambulism much to his advantage in his adjustment to the environment and his success in life.

The steps toward such abnormal conditions are usually indicated by an increasing liability to fatigue. Even with normal people overfatigue results in a lessened personal perception which differs only in degree and in a greater capacity to recover from the cases of hysteria we have just been considering. Even when nervous exhaustion is decidedly constitutional or hereditary overfatigue only aggravates the conditions. Children who suffer from a tendency in this direction should be recognized as early in life as possible. This is important both for their present work and their future prospects.

SHORT MANY THOUSANDS?

Such a Report About a Packing Co.
Official, Who Resigned.

Cincinnati, Jan. 23.—Sensational reports were published here of an alleged shortage in the books of Theodore Braemer, who resigned last Sunday his position as secretary and treasurer of the J. and F. Schroth Packing company, of this city. The story, as first published, alleged a shortage of from $160,000 to $400,000, extending over a period of 20 years, and claimed that Mr. Braemer had turned over all his property and chattels in trust, pending an examination of the books by experts.

Braemer denied that there was any defalcation, but admitted that he had turned $72,000 in personal property over to Harlan Cleveland, his attorney, and Joseph W. O'Hara, attorney for the Schroths company. While Braemer talked freely about the case, the Schroths refused to say anything, and the attorneys were also reticent.

Will Not Investigate Books.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The miners' investigating committee, which was thought last night, will probably be ready with its report this morning, the report to be followed by the election of officers. A member of the committee said last night that the committee had decided to investigate only the charges made on the floor of the convention against Mitchell and Wilson, with the evidence adduced in the convention, and would make no examination of the books of the order to ascertain what they showed as to the shortage of ex-Secretary-Treasurer Pearce. Patrick Dolan, of Pennsylvania, is a member of the committee.

He had occupied Presbyterian pulpits in this city and Newark, and was recognized as a foremost educator. He was 66 years old.

TELEPHONE POLES

In Great Numbers Being Erected About the City—Difficult Work.

Innumerable poles are being erected by the Bell Telephone company which will hold the wires that will extend from the cable conduits. For several days a crew of men has been working under the direction of Philip Corbett, west of Market street. The poles are large in diameter, tall and substantial.

Holes that are being dug for them are six feet deep. The excavation is no easy thing to accomplish and two to three holes are all that one man can sink in a day, as there is so much gravel and rock. Frequently a hole has reached nearly the required depth when a gas, water pipe or sewer drain is encountered, whereupon the cavity has to be filled and another one dug.

Wherever an especially solid pole is needed it is put down about eight feet and tamped with cement. A team of horses raises the heavy sticks into position while steadied by workmen.

Practically completed is the swabbing out and smoothing of the ducts in the conduits. The cables will not be inserted until perhaps late in the spring or early summer, but it is the expectation of the Bell people to have their new copper system in local use by next autumn.

WILL NOT ENFORCE THE BRIDGE RULES

Mayor Davidson Proposes to Make Exceptions of Fast Driving Cases.

A NEW DECREE IS ISSUED

Says He Will Not Prosecute Doctors or Preachers Who Violate the Rules Regulating Speed on the Bridge—His Reasons Stated.

Believing fully in the old adage that "right wrongs no man," Mayor Davidson, who has always demonstrated since he assumed the duties of city executive that his court is one of justice at all times, issued the positive decree today that an exception is henceforth to be made of some cases that result from violations of the rules governing the Chester bridge.

Ever since the time that the bridge was first opened for public use there have been scores of complaints made to the mayor concerning the charges for toll and also because of alleged undue authority shown by those in charge of the bridge. On the other hand Supt. Paulley has made numerous complaints to the mayor because of alleged infractions of his code of rules, which have tended to harass the mayor to an intolerable point.

The mayor learns that very many persons who are compelled to come in contact with the toll collectors are making daily protests. Nobody objects to the price asked for foot passage, though it is much above that generally charged over the country, but the assessments made for vehicles have been causing complaint.

The matter of charges, however, is not governed by the mayor, though he is among the many who would like to see a reduction. The greatest fault he has to find is that concerning the stringent rules against fast driving. He does not believe that racing should be allowed, neither does he criticize efforts to hold fast drivers in check. But yet he believes there are excusable cases.

His new decree is that doctors and preachers will hereafter be exempt from sentence even if proven conclusively guilty of breaking the fast driving rules. In explaining his reasons for taking this action the mayor says that when either a doctor or minister is sent for it is most generally an urgent case that demands his presence.

"It seems to me that I would be doing a great injustice to fine a doctor for driving his horse over a bridge faster than a walk. Take, for instance, in the case of an accident where a man is badly injured and when medical or surgical aid must be had, the small space of a minute may mean life or death with the victim. Considering this fact doesn't it seem unreasonable to attempt to force the doctor who is called in such a case to hold his horse down to a walk while crossing the bridge and thus lose time of inestimable value?"

"It is nearly always necessary also for a clergyman to be present without the loss of a moment when he is called. Frequently his services are desired at a death bed, and it could easily be the case that the dying man or woman would pass away while the reverend gentleman was holding his horse down to regulation speed.

"Even if the minister is only wanted to officiate at a wedding, he should not be delayed. In such a case he should be rushed and not retarded.

"Doctors and preachers will never be fined for fast driving in the mayor's court while I am in authority."

HIS NOSE BITTEN

Attacked By Another Boy While Going to School, Who Used His Teeth As Weapon.

Floyd Miller, the young son of Constable James Miller, was attacked on the street this morning while on his way to school and badly used up by a boy whose name is said to be Richards.

The boys were in a crowd last night and some trouble occurred between them. Richards sought revenge and lay in wait for Miller. Soon after the fight commenced the combatants clinched, and while thus close against his adversary, Richards with his teeth caught Miller by the nose. For a time the struggle was fierce and bloody, and when the two were separated Miller's nose was nearly torn from his face. It is probable he will be disfigured for life. Constable Miller proposes to prosecute his son's assailant to the fullest limit.

Sleigh Ride to Calcutta—About 16 girls of the sophomore class, and their chaperon, make up a party which will take a sleigh ride to Calcutta tonight.

Entertainment Tonight—An entertainment will be given by the Ohio Valley and Pride of the Valley Rulings of the Mystic Circle at the G. A. R. hall this evening.

Sleigh Upset—A party of young people who were enjoying a sleigh ride last evening on Broadway, took an unexpected tumble into the snow. The horses became frightened and upset the sleigh. Nobody was hurt, however.

Railroad Officials Go Through Yesterday—A special train containing Pennsylvania railroad officials passed east over the C. & P. yesterday afternoon. The party was headed by General Superintendent Schoyer and Division Superintendent Scriven had charge of the train to Rochester. No stop was made at the depot.

No Fires in Nearly a Month—Members of the fire department have had a long wait for a blaze of any kind. It has been just 24 days since the last call, which is doing splendidly for this season of the year. Matters incendiary are usually more prolific.

TELEPHONE POLES

In Great Numbers Being Erected About the City—Difficult Work.

Innumerable poles are being erected by the Bell Telephone company which will hold the wires that will extend from the cable conduits. For several days a crew of men has been working under the direction of Philip Corbett, west of Market street. The poles are large in diameter, tall and substantial.

Holes that are being dug for them are six feet deep. The excavation is no easy thing to accomplish and two to three holes are all that one man can sink in a day, as there is so much gravel and rock. Frequently a hole has reached nearly the required depth when a gas, water pipe or sewer drain is encountered, whereupon the cavity has to be filled and another one dug.

Wherever an especially solid pole is needed it is put down about eight feet and tamped with cement. A team of horses raises the heavy sticks into position while steadied by workmen.

Practically completed is the swabbing out and smoothing of the ducts in the conduits. The cables will not be inserted until perhaps late in the spring or early summer, but it is the expectation of the Bell people to have their new copper system in local use by next autumn.

THE MOCKING WINE

Caused William Sweeney, Jr., to Pay a Fine—Tramps Lodged in City Jail.

Over-indulgence in liquor was the cause of William Sweeney Jr.'s arrest last night. Officer Dawson caught him in bad shape and locked him up. He paid $5.00 this morning.

Three "gents of the road" were given lodging in the bastille last night. All took a much needed bath and departed this morning.

WILL NOT ENFORCE THE BRIDGE RULES

Mayor Davidson Proposes to Make Exceptions of Fast Driving Cases.

A NEW DECREE IS ISSUED

Says He Will Not Prosecute Doctors or Preachers Who Violate the Rules Regulating Speed on the Bridge—His Reasons Stated.

Believing fully in the old adage that "right wrongs no man," Mayor Davidson, who has always demonstrated since he assumed the duties of city executive that his court is one of justice at all times, issued the positive decree today that an exception is henceforth to be made of some cases that result from violations of the rules governing the Chester bridge.

Ever since the time that the bridge was first opened for public use there have been scores of complaints made to the mayor concerning the charges for toll and also because of alleged undue authority shown by those in charge of the bridge. On the other hand Supt. Paulley has made numerous complaints to the mayor because of alleged infractions of his code of rules, which have tended to harass the mayor to an intolerable point.

The mayor learns that very many persons who are compelled to come in contact with the toll collectors are making daily protests. Nobody objects to the price asked for foot passage, though it is much above that generally charged over the country, but the assessments made for vehicles have been causing complaint.

The matter of charges, however, is not governed by the mayor, though he is among the many who would like to see a reduction. The greatest fault he has to find is that concerning the stringent rules against fast driving. He does not believe that racing should be allowed, neither does he criticize efforts to hold fast drivers in check. But yet he believes there are excusable cases.

His new decree is that doctors and preachers will hereafter be exempt from sentence even if proven conclusively guilty of breaking the fast driving rules. In explaining his reasons for taking this action the mayor says that when either a doctor or minister is sent for it is most generally an urgent case that demands his presence.

"It seems to me that I would be doing a great injustice to fine a doctor for driving his horse over a bridge faster than a walk. Take, for instance, in the case of an accident where a man is badly injured and when medical or surgical aid must be had, the small space of a minute may mean life or death with the victim. Considering this fact doesn't it seem unreasonable to attempt to force the doctor who is called in such a case to hold his horse down to a walk while crossing the bridge and thus lose time of inestimable value?"

"It is nearly always necessary also for a clergyman to be present without the loss of a moment when he is called. Frequently his services are desired at a death bed, and it could easily be the case that the dying man or woman would pass away while the reverend gentleman was holding his horse down to regulation speed."

"Even if the minister is only wanted to officiate at a wedding, he should not be delayed. In such a case he should be rushed and not retarded. Doctors and preachers will never be fined for fast driving in the mayor's court while I am in authority."

HIS NOSE BITTEN

Attacked By Another Boy While Going to School, Who Used His Teeth As Weapon.

Floyd Miller, the young son of Constable James Miller, was attacked on the street this morning while on the way to school and badly used up by a boy whose name is said to be Richards. The boys were in a crowd last night and some trouble occurred between them. Richards sought revenge and lay in wait for Miller. Soon after the fight commenced the combatants clinched, and while thus close against his adversary, Richards with his teeth caught Miller by the nose. For a time the struggle was fierce and bloody, and when the two were separated Miller's nose was nearly torn from his face. It is probable he will be disfigured for life. Constable Miller proposes to prosecute his son's assailant to the fullest limit.

The Time Limit For Candidates to Enter the Race Expires Feb. 1.

AN EARNEST MEETING HELD

By the Republican City Committee and Important Matters Considered.

PROPOSED REGISTRATION BILL

Read to the Committee—It Extends the Registration Law for Second-Class Cities to Cities of a Certain Population.

The political pot which has been simmering for several weeks began to boil in dead earnest last night, and from now until March 1 there will be no lull in the efforts of both municipal and county candidates to land the nominations for the several offices to which they aspire.

When Chairman Geo. H. Owen called the meeting of the Republican city committee to order at city hall last night there was not only a very large percentage of the members of that body present, but nearly all the candidates for city and township offices were also in attendance.

It was announced that the first matter to be considered would be the selection of a date for holding the city primary, and Criss McConnell, Leroy Orr and George E. Davidson were appointed to confer with the candidates with a view of ascertaining their wishes in the matter. The committee was also instructed to recommend the date on which the entry of candidates' names should close. It was almost unanimously decided by the candidates that March 1 should be nomination day, and after the committee had selected Saturday, February 1, as the time limit for entries, it so reported to the body. The report was concurred in and a few of the candidates retired.

A considerable amount of discussion was indulged in with reference to the manner in which the names should be placed upon the municipal ticket. It was finally decided to observe the old rule of placing the name of the person who first signified his intention of being a candidate by depositing his assessment with the clerk of the committee, at the head of the list for that particular office. In order to better regulate this system in the future a motion was passed providing that no candidate's name would be received hereafter until the date for holding the primary had been decided upon by the committee.

Secretary Betz, who is a member of the committee appointed some time ago to endeavor to secure registration for East Liverpool, read a bill which has been prepared, and which it is proposed to have passed at the present session of the state legislature. The bill is as follows:

Provided, further, that the provisions of said section 2926 and all other sections of the statutes of the state of Ohio concerning and regulating the registration of electors and the holding of elections and voting in cities of the second class in said state, be and the same are hereby extended to and made applicable to any city or cities in said state having at the last federal census a population of _____, and that in such city or cities _____ has heretofore been made under the provisions of the registration laws of said state now in force therein, deputy state supervisors of elections for the counties in which said cities are located, shall immediately on the effect of this act proceed to appoint a secretary, registrars of elections, judges, clerks of elections and such other clerks, officers and agents as are now provided for by the registration laws of said state applicable to a general registration of electors in cities of the second class in said state, and appoint times and places for such registration, and provide suitable rooms, furniture, blanks and all other things now authorized to be provided for the registration of the electors in said cities of the second class in said state, and make all the needful rules and regulations, and furnish all needed ballot boxes, ballots, blanks, papers and all such other materials and appoint all such assistants, employees and officers as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of said statutes as

to elections in said cities of the second class in said state and make the same applicable to a city or cities having the population aforesaid in said state, and in all respects enforce the laws governing the same, so that all laws now in force applicable to the registration of electors in cities of the second class in said state and the way and manner of voting at any general or special election in said state shall be and the same hereby are extended to and made and declared to be in full force and effect as to any city or cities in said state having a population of _____; provided further, that on Thursday in the fourth week, Thursday in the third week, Friday and Saturday in the second week next before the day of the general election in November next, a general registration of electors in said city or cities

The Embarrassment Was Only Temporary, Causing Consumers Little Inconvenience.

High pressure caused a serious break in the high pressure main of the Ohio Valley Gas Co., at 5 o'clock last evening, two miles from pump station No. 2, located in Greene county, Pa. The gas commenced to become low in this city about 7 o'clock, but owing to rapid work on the part of the officials of the company, gas was turned into another main, running around the break and this city. Supt. G. A. Groglode, of the Ohio Valley Gas Co., located in this city, said this morning that the line was blown up by the high pressure, causing almost a complete loss of gas. This is the first serious break this company have had to contend with this season. Another break occurred in the mains near Cameron, W. Va., later in the evening, but necessary repairs were made on the line this morning.

M'KINLEY MEETING

Grand Memorial Service at the Opera House Planned For Next Wednesday Afternoon.

It was learned this afternoon that the opera house can be had for the afternoon at merely nominal expense, and there appears to be no good reason why the meeting should not be held.

It is proposed to have the city government and every trade, industry and profession, as well as all the churches, Catholic and Protestant, and all political parties in the city represented at the meeting, and a large and earnest gathering can be safely predicted. As one of the main objects of the meeting will be to arouse interest in the McKinley memorial fund, it is suggested that all who propose to contribute to that worthy cause come prepared. It is also suggested that all individuals and organizations who propose to contribute withhold their contributions until the meeting is held, in order that all the cash collected or prospective may be reported at that time, to make it plain to the rest of Ohio that East Liverpool will do her whole duty in honoring the memory of the greatest and best statesman in our recent history.

A movement was started in this city today the object of which is to hold a McKinley memorial service in the opera house on the afternoon of January 29, as suggested in the recent proclamation of Governor Nash. The idea originated with Rev. C. G. Jordan, of the First Presbyterian church, and he this morning held conferences with several prominent business men concerning the movement.

Officials of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, manufacturing potters and a number of merchants were seen during the day, all agreeing that the movement is a worthy one. While the plan is still in its infancy, detailed arrangements will probably be completed by this evening. Several prominent speakers will be asked to address the meeting, and among the number will doubtless be those who were the late president's intimate friends.

A VERY HOT TIME ON A FROSTY NIGHT

Their Ammunition, Consisting of Roman Candles, Exploded—No body Injured.

The party of coon hunters that started in a sled last evening for Sprucevale had a "hot time" for a certainty, despite the chilly condition of the atmosphere.

Instead of taking guns the hunters bought a supply of roman candles, with which they expected to scare the coons to death. The fireworks were placed in the straw in the bed of the sled and when about a mile beyond Calcutta, "Swatty" Foster accidentally set fire to the straw.

In an instant a terrific bombardment followed and the scramble in the sled was worse. In less than 10 seconds every occupant had rolled, fallen or jumped out into the snow, while great streams of fire shot all about them. The ammunition was all burned up and the distressed hunters were forced to return home.

Mayor Davidson did the driving and was given the use of a "cushion" seat, which he presently found to consist of a folded lap robe in the middle of which was a large and juicy pie. Fortunately the pie and his honor's trousers sustained the only injury that resulted from the hunt.

PEOPLE DON'T ENTHUSE

MORMON APOSTLES FIND EAST LIVERPOOL UNRESPONSIVE.

As the Result of Several Months' Labor, They Have No Converts And Can't Hire a Hall.

Two Mormon elders who have been in this city for some time have failed to secure even one convert to their faith. Such was the statement of one of the elders to a reporter yesterday afternoon.

As previously stated in this paper exclusively, Elder W. H. Wilcox, of Farmington, Utah, has been here since last September, but last month additional help was sent him in the person of Elder Thomas M. Woodland, of Oenida, Idaho. These men are now stopping at a house on Monroe street, but are not meeting with much success with their work.

One of the "apostles" stated yesterday afternoon that they proposed to rent a hall in which meetings would be held, but no person would rent them one. There are about 10 Mormon believers in this city and in the entire state there are just 105 believers, according to the latest reports received by the missionaries here.

Injured While Seigning.

While sleighing with a lady friend last night, a drummer named Murphy from New York, was thrown from the sleigh, sustaining a dislocated shoulder.

FOUND DEAD IN BED AT BOARDING HOUSE

FERDINAND DOLL, AN AGED GERMAN, EXPIRES SUDDENLY.

Pneumonia Thought to Have Been the Cause of Death—Was Alone When End Came.

Alone in an upstairs room, with no one about him that realized the serious nature of his illness, Ferdinand Doll, an aged and well-known German, died shortly before 10 o'clock this morning at the Anderson boarding house, Market and Third streets.

For several weeks he had been ailing, though not until a few days ago did his illness become serious. It is thought that pneumonia was the cause of death.

He did not go down stairs this morning and Mrs. Anderson visited his room twice to look after him. On her second visit she found him dead.

Ferdinand Doll was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1847, and emigrated to East Liverpool 9 years ago, where he has continuously resided. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Doll, lives at 152 Sophia street, and from her home the funeral will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Mr. Doll left no children, but left two stepsons, John Heisler, foreman of the Vordrey warehouse, who lives with his mother, and George Heisler, of Sixth street, who is foreman of the decorating department in the National. Mr. Doll had a small amount of property and carried $500 insurance. His remains will be interred in Riverview cemetery.

CERTAIN JUDGMENTS

Against Grocer Mushrush Which Court Is Asked to Declare Void.

Lisbon, January 23.—(Special)—Wm. F. Davidson and the National Biscuit company have claims against Grocer J. C. Mushrush, of East Liverpool. Mushrush, it is claimed, confessed judgment in Squire McCarron's court in favor of T. Stewart & Co. to the amount of $286.82, and Mrs. Theodore Butler to the amount of $275.

Davidson and the biscuit company as plaintiffs ask that these payments be declared void.

to pass the wharfboat was a tow boat which went down with a fleet of coal barges Saturday evening.

The C. & P. To Be Used for P. & W. Trains Part Way And New Line the Rest.

Pittsburg, January 23.—Detailed surveys for a complete change in the line of the Pittsburg & Western from Pittsburg to Warwick are now before the management of the Baltimore & Ohio. The new route will be over the Fort Wayne tracks from Allegheny to Rochester; over the Cleveland & Pittsburg tracks to a point near Smith's Ferry and then over a new line from Smith's Ferry to Warwick. The new line will follow the Little Beaver river and the north fork of the Little Beaver as far as practicable. It will pass through Canton.

The acquisition of the Pittsburg & Western, along with the Baltimore & Ohio, by the Pennsylvania has been the means of making this new route possible. It has been known for some time past that the Pittsburg & Western is to use the new Fort Wayne passenger station promised to Allegheny and the other improvements to be made when the Fort Wayne tracks through that city are elevated.

Youngstown and several other important cities would be taken from the main line by the improvement. In mileage the new route will about equal that of the Ft. Wayne. The distance from Pittsburg to Orrville on the Ft. Wayne is about 124 miles, while the length of the new Pittsburg & Western to Warwick will be about 113 miles. Orrville and Warwick are near together.

LEASE OF A MINE

Andrew Roley's Suit Against George M. Aten, of Wellsville, for $5,000.

Lisbon, Jan. 23. (Special)—Andrew Roley, of Wellsville, has sued George M. Aten, of that city, for $5,000 damages, and asks an injunction restraining Aten from ejecting Roley from a mine leased by Aten to the plaintiff.

The petition states that on January 12, 1900, Roley leased the vein of coal, known as creek vein No. 3, for five years, with privilege of re-leasing for five years more. Shortly after, Aten, the plaintiff says, began to charge him with dishonesty, and attempted to injure his business, and compel him to leave the premises. A suit has been pending in Squire Riley's court, brought by Aten under the forcible detention act, to compel Roley to vacate. The hearing is set for January 24, at 9 a. m. Roley claims he has kept his contract.

Under the Provisions of a Bill Which the Ohio Senate Has Passed.

AN IMPORTANT AMENDMENT

Was Added to the Measure by Senator Connell Before It Passed.

A COLUMBIANA COUNTY MAN

Who Is Doing Time in the Penitentiary Gets in Trouble—Legislative Jettings And Other Gossip of the State Capital.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, January 23.—Senator Connell, of Lisbon, offered an important amendment to the bill introduced by Senator Chamberlin, of Elyria, Wednesday afternoon, fixing penalties for an assault on a president, vice president, cabinet officer, governors and lieutenant governors. The bill as originally drawn only applied to governors and lieutenant governors of Ohio, but the amendment of Senator Connell increases its scope so as to extend protection to governors and lieutenant governors of any state, territory or possession of the United States, who may visit Ohio. The measure was passed as amended by Senator Connell Wednesday afternoon. There is not the slightest doubt that it will be enacted into a law by the action of the house.

The act makes death the penalty in case the assault results fatally, and 20 years' imprisonment in the penitentiary if the result is otherwise. One consideration among many others which prompted Senator Connell to submit the amendment was to place a safeguard about Governor Taft, of the Philippines, who is now en route to Cincinnati, his former home.

The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, in advertising to the makeup of the senate committees, made special reference to Senator Connell in his capacity of chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, commenting upon the rarity of placing a first term in such an important position and predicting that he would become a leader upon the floor of the senate.

John Henry, known as "Slippery John," who is now serving a term of four years in the penitentiary for a crime committed in Columbiana county, is again in trouble behind the walls. A woman, whom Henry declared was his sister, was detected with six prison-made shirts in her possession, which she said had been given to her by Henry. She had concealed the shirts in a basket. John was asked to give an explanation, but he could give none. The shirts had evidently been taken from one of the state shops, and as Henry seemed to have been responsible for their disappearance, he was punished by having good time deducted from his record. This will be restored if he is not reported for the same offense within a certain period. Henry hails from East Rochester. He was convicted of the theft of a quantity of clover seed. This is his third term.

A suspected case of arson was reported to the state fire marshal from Leetonia recently, but an investigation by Deputy Hart, of Akron, failed to develop enough evidence to warrant carrying the matter into court.

At the Ohio State university this spring Miss Sara Swaney, of East Liverpool, who is a candidate for a degree, will write a thesis on "The Use of Animals as Literary Material." Ervin G. Bailey, of Damascus, who is a candidate for the degree of mechanical engineer, will write a thesis on "Comparative Road Tests of Consolidative Locomotives."

The taxation committee, of which Mr. Crist is a member, has got down to work. Taxation bills have been plying in since Monday, and all are referred to the taxation committee. For a time, at least, this committee will be the busiest in the house. Mr. Crist will organize the committee on public printing, of which he is chairman, in a day or two.

FAST AND FURIOUS

Was the Fun With Snowballs Until Police Interference Was Needed.

A high carnival of fun was held by the young people on Mulberry street last evening. Upward of a hundred employees of the potteries had a sham battle with snowballs and the fun became general. Every male pedestrian was obliged to take off his hat to the rompers and each lady was compelled to make a bow or be pelted.

Captain Terrance was summoned from the fire station after the fun had grown too furious and gave warning that arrests would follow failure to stop it. The trouble stopped and people who had kept indoors to escape the missiles were free to come out and go their way.

GIVES UP SOLDIERING

Homer Moore Gets Honorable Discharge From United States Infantry.

Homer Moore has returned from Pittsburg, where he received his honorable discharge from the Twenty-eighth infantry. With 26 young men from New Brighton, Pa., he recently enlisted for Philippine service, but got no farther than California. He had a short time previous enlisted with the Tenth regulars, meeting with similar misfortune, to his ambition.

The young man finally gave up the idea of being a soldier and this week went to work for John Demerling, a Laughlin No. 2 jiggerman.

Small Boy Seriously Hurt While Coasting—Sled Struck a Stump.

Roy Baker, 11-year-old son of J. H. Baker, living east of Ralston's crossing, along Pennsylvania avenue, was coasting with companions on the hillside below the avenue last evening when his sled struck against a stump.

He was found in an insensible condition and a physician said that while the lad's nose had been broken, his skull was not fractured.

Sleigh Tipped Over.

A lively runaway happened on College street last evening. The horse of William Swindells, who was out with a friend in a cutter, took fright, and, in rounding a corner, tipped over the sleigh. With nothing but the shafts attached the horse ran to the barn, where he is stabled. Occupants of the cutter were only slightly bruised.

Porter Bell is ill with the grip at his home on First avenue.

Miss Margaret Dever is sick at her home on St. George street.

Mrs. Joseph Pollock is recovering from a severe illness at her home on First avenue.

Dr. Charles Sweeney, of Niles, was a guest last evening at the home of Dr. W. E. Mowen, on First avenue.

Mrs. A. Rogers and family are moving from Railroad avenue to St. George street. The house vacated by her will be occupied by the family of J. L. Arnold.

Rev. James N. Swan and Rev. N. M. Crowe went to Smith's Ferry this morning, where this afternoon they conducted the funeral of the late Mrs. Sarah J. McGrew.

Miss Lizzie Smith, who has been in an unconscious condition with spinal meningitis at the home of Philip Morley since Monday, revived this morning and there are some hopes of her recovery.

FOUGHT WITH MARK HANNA

Dr. H. C. McCook Relates Stories of His School Days in Lisbon.

Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook, one of the most prominent Presbyterian clergymen in Philadelphia, was born and raised in Lisbon, and will be well remembered, especially among the older citizens. In a recent interview Dr. McCook made the statement that school boy encounters licked sense into him. Going further, he stated, that "it is not at all a bad thing for boys to fight. When I was a school boy in Lisbon I did a lot of fist-cuffing. Whether it did the other boys any good or not I do not know, though some of them have turned out pretty well. Some of these were Mark Hanna, Governor Campbell and 'Billy' Armstrong, who was for years editor of the Cleveland Plaindealer.

"But I do know it did me a lot of good, for it licked a bit of common sense into me. We had an old Scotch-Irish schoolmaster called 'Old Davy Anderson.' He never cared how much we fought so long as he did not get official notice before the first fight came off, but he always insisted that we should shake hands afterward."

Give Rise to Numerous Complaints to the Mayor—Arrests May Be Made.

In the past few days numerous complaints have been made to Mayor Davidson concerning the young boys who are taking advantage of the opportunity to throw snowballs. Teamsters, especially, claim to be pestered, while many pedestrians complain that they have been struck in the face by the icy missiles hurled by the careless youngsters.

Mayor Davidson does not forget that he was once a boy himself, and for this reason is inclined to be lenient. However, he says that if the practice of snowballing reaches a point where the citizens are menaced he will be compelled to fine the juvenile offenders.

MISLAID STOCKS FOUND

The Result Is a Small Fortune for a Mother And Her Daughter.

Uhrichsville, January 23.—Mrs. P. C. Spiker and her sister, Miss Belle Scott, of this city, have just received word that they are heirs to a nice little sum of money from the estate of their grandfather, James Whitaker.

Mr. Whitaker died over 40 years ago in Harrison county. Recently several thousand dollars' worth of railroad stock was found which belonged to him, but had been mislaid. An administrator has been appointed to settle up the estate the second time.

A Bluff That Wins.

An attack of hysteria simulating unconsciousness in a woman may be stopped, says Modern Medicine, "by the surgeon taking a pair of scissors and regretfully announcing that he will have to cut all the patient's hair off in order to make the application to her head. It is doubtful whether this bluff has even been known to fail."

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, Druggist.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop formation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. Your only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Charles F. AN ABLE ATTORNEY FOR CITY SOLICITOR

W. K. Gaston, the Present Efficient Incumbent a Candidate For Re-Election.

MANY CASES DISPOSED OF

The Duties of the Office Have More Than Doubled During the Past Two Years, Yet All Matters Have Been Ably Handled.

As a candidate for re-election to the office of city solicitor, W. K. Gaston presents his name to the people of East Liverpool. Mr. Gaston is a lawyer of more than ordinary ability, and his record as the city's legal adviser has not been excelled by any of his predecessors.

There has been more legal business to transact, more technical questions of law at issue, more lawsuits on the court dockets to dispose of than was ever known to arise during a single term of any solicitor before. Yet practically all these have been disposed of by Mr. Gaston in a manner that was not only a credit to himself, but to the city as well.

He has always been prominently connected with the Republican party and has sacrificed neither time nor experience in anything that would further the party's interests. In view of the clean record Mr. Gaston sustains, the able manner in which he has handled the affairs of the city during his present term, certainly entitles him to ask and reasonably expect the hearty support of every Republican voter in the city.

UNITED DEMOCRACY ADVOCATED

Ex-Lieut. Gov. Black Gives Advice as to Organizing the Party in Pennsylvania.

Chester, Pa., Jan. 23.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Chauncey F. Black has written a letter to Samuel Fettes, H. P. Schofield and others of Chester and Delaware counties in reply to a joint letter sent by them to Mr. Black, asking his advice as to organizing the Democratic party of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Black in his letter treats the subject at considerable length. In part he says:

"I answer that if we would succeed in the immediate future, the party must be organized as to include within its ranks all those who adhere to Democratic principles of government in general. Nothing could be more unwise, perhaps fatal, than the reckless and useless perpetuation of recent differences. I, and I suppose you, being straight Democrats, supported Mr. Bryan and those great declarations of human rights—the Chicago and Kansas City platforms—with all the fervor of which we are capable. But there were some Democrats, most of them as honest as we, who magnified the silver question into a vital issue, and who, therefore, disagreeing with us, our platforms and our candidates, assisted, directly or indirectly, to put the imperialist party into power. They have realized their error. They see the republic transformed into an empire. They see the constitution disregarded; the government administered in the interest of a class; the money power omnipotent; the congress taxing for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many; gigantic industrial combinations flourishing unopposed; and a European colonial system established instead of our familiar and excellent American territorial system, with the mighty military and naval armaments required to support it. Those Democrats who were misled by false and corrupt clamor into helping to bring on this condition of things are heartily sick and sorry.

Mr. Black advocated the organization of clubs as a powerful factor.

By TOMAS ESTRADA PALMA, the Island Republic's First President

WISH to correct the statements that have been made to the effect that my candidacy was advised by the United States government and that if elected I would be under its control. Of course, I can never forget the debt we owe this country for helping us gain our independence. I love the United States. Cuba owes much to it as a nation.

Notwithstanding, I am first of all a Cuban.

NO ONE WILL CONTROL ME. I AM FREE TO ACT WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOR. I HAVE MADE NO PLEDGES FOR THE PURPOSE OF GAINING OFFICE.

A commercial treaty with the United States is an urgent necessity. It should be effected without loss of time.

I WILL ASK, WITH EVERY EXPECTATION OF THE REQUEST BEING GRANTED, THAT A REASONABLE REDUCTION SHALL BE MADE IN THE DUTY ON SUGAR AND TOBACCO, THE TWO STAPLES OF CUBAN AGRICULTURE. If this reduction is granted, the prosperity of Cuba will be immediate and great. IF IT IS DENIED, IT WILL MEAN RUIN. There will be $500,000,000 employed in the sugar and tobacco industries, all of which will be lost if the American door is closed. The fields of Cuba will be desolated and the sugar mills ruined just as thoroughly as they were by the Spanish incendiaries.

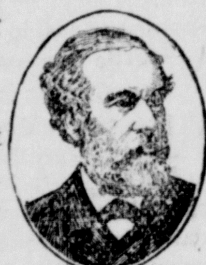

TIME TO AID CUBA

By Senator O. H. PLATT, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Relations With Cuba

THE TIME HAS COME TO DO SOMETHING FOR THE COMMERCIAL PROSPERITY OF CUBA.

The way is clear. We shall be fulfilling both a moral and a political obligation.

I think it can be done with material benefit to the United States as a whole and without injury to any particular industry. That it will work to the moral and financial advantage of the new republic there can be no doubt.

By SERENO E. PAYNE, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee

SHOULD we find that the needs of Cuba require it and that our own economic conditions would not suffer, I SEE NO CONSTITUTIONAL REASONS NOW WHY A BILL SCALING THE DINGLEY RATES ON CUBAN PRODUCTS SHOULD NOT BE FRAMED, provided the new government there makes satisfactory concessions to the United States.

WARNED BY RICHARDSON.

Man, Afterward Murdered, Warned Fife to Keep Away From His Wife, Now on Trial.

Plattsburg, Mo., Jan. 23.—The name of Stewart Fife, the young society man, arrested recently at North Yakima, Wash., on a charge of murdering Frank W. Richardson, the Savannah merchant, was brought in frequently at the trial of Mrs. Addie L. Richardson, widow of the dead man, accused of murder. Judge Burns decided an important point for the state by admitting evidence that might tend to show Mrs. Richardson's relations with Fife, which the defense had sought to keep out. R. A. Morris testified to seeing the couple together on different occasions. An important witness was Bruce Stanton, a clerk in the Fife-Richardson store, who told of a quarrel between Richardson and Fife in the presence of the witness and Mrs. Richardson, when the four were walking toward the Richardson home.

"Richardson," said the witness, "who had been cursing Fife, turned on him finally and told him he would have to keep away from Mrs. Richardson. Fife told him to shut up his mouth, or he would shut it up for him. Richardson and Fife started toward each other and I told Richardson to go into the house."

Charles Glazier, also a clerk in the store, was shown a revolver found five blocks from the scene of the murder and believed it to be the weapon with which Richardson was killed. It looked like Fife's revolver, he said, but he could not be sure.

RENOUNCED THRONE FOR LOVE.

The Archduchess Elizabeth of Austria-Hungary Becomes the Bride of a Poor Lieutenant.

Vienna, Jan. 23.—The Archduchess Elizabeth, daughter of the Princess Stephanie and the late Crown Prince Rudolf, was married to Prince Otto von Windesgratz, in the grand hall of the imperial palace.

The wedding of this member of the house of Hapsburg, who was willing to renounce her rights to the Hungarian throne to wed the man of her choice, a poor lieutenant in the Austrian army, was graced by the members of the royal family, as well as representatives of the noblest Austrian families. Emperor Francis Joseph, surrounded by archdukes and archduchesses, the members of the cabinet, representatives of the army and the navy and members of the nobility, were there to show their approval of the match and to offer their congratulations to the happy couple.

The Archduchess Elizabeth was dressed in pure white. She took her oath of renunciation of claims to the throne before a crucifix, with her right hand on the Bible, previous to the marriage ceremony. Count Goluchowski, minister of foreign affairs, and the cardinal archbishop of Vienna administered the oath. After the oath had been administered Elizabeth kissed the hand of the emperor.

The Archduchess Elizabeth is 18 years old, and has a winning and charming personality. Her father's tragic death occurred just when she was old enough to understand how deep was her bereavement.

Prince Otto belongs to the cadet branch of an ancient family, but he is only a serene highness. For some years he has turned his attention to agriculture and cattle raising. He is 28 years old.

CUMMINGS BECAME AROUSED.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Some of the old partisan fire was injected into the proceedings of the house yesterday when the item in the urgent deficiency bill appropriating $500,000 for a military post at Manila, which the Democrats have been using as a text for speeches in opposition to the Philippine policy of the administration for the last three days, was reached. Mr. Cannon, in charge of the bill, confessed that the appropriation was subject to a point of order, and it went out. In lieu thereof, he offered an amendment to appropriate the same sum for the "shelter and protection" of the officers and enlisted men of the army on duty in the Philippines. This the chair held to be in order, and it at once became the subject of a very spirited debate, in which Mr. Richardson, the minority leader; Mr. Williams, of Mississippi, and Mr. DeArmond, of Missouri, were pitted against the chairman of the appropriations committee. Partisan applause rang out on each side to cheer on the respective champions, and there seemed to be a solid lineup on each side of the political aisle.

But when the vote came to be taken Mr. Cummings, a New York Democrat, voted with the Republicans, turning angrily on his political brethren as he did so, and with clinched fist in their faces, crying out that he hoped he might be paralyzed when he refused to protect an American soldier. The vote on the adoption of the amendment stood: Ayes, 127; nays, 100.

Before the general debate closed Mr. Watson paid a beautiful tribute to the late President McKinley.

No Debate on Philippines Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Debate on the Philippine tariff bill was not continued in the senate yesterday, no member of the body being prepared to proceed with the discussion. The bill providing for the establishment of a department of commerce was under discussion for nearly two hours. Little progress was made with it, as while the debate disclosed no objections to the main features of the bill there was a disposition on the part of the senate to give it careful consideration and to perfect the details of the measure.

FRENCH AUTHORITIES SO ASSERT

Declare England, Like the Rest, Was Waiting to See What the Others Would Do—Germany Encouraged Spain to Resist, Then Shook Her.

Paris, Jan. 23.—In view of the statement made by Lord Cranborne, the British under secretary of state for foreign affairs, in the house of commons Monday on the subject of representations made to Great Britain before and after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, and the dispatch of the Associated Press from London Tuesday on the same subject, the correspondent of the Associated Press made inquiries in an authoritative quarter here.

The declarations received were in part:

Russian Official Said No.

In the first place, in the Spanish negotiations, at the end of March, 1898, to secure the intervention of the powers in her favor, Great Britain took the same attitude as France and the other powers. She neither refused nor consented to join in collective action. All the powers were hesitating until they ascertained the intentions of the others. Russia settled the matter by the late Count Mouravieff's blunt rejection of the proposal.

Later Austria instructed its ambassadors to propose to the European governments that a note be presented at Washington urging the United States to accept Spain's offer and avert war. Balfour promised the Spanish ambassador to instruct Lord Pauncefote to act alone, or with his colleagues, with the view to maintaining peace. No collective action was definitely agreed upon, though Russia, France and Germany were disposed towards a movement which would avert an outbreak of hostilities. A few days before the war, however, it was declared that Mr. Balfour had raised the objection to which Lord Cranborne alluded in the house of commons Monday against any note which would have the appearance of putting pressure on the United States or offering an opinion on the United States' attitude.

All That England Did For Us.

This was the extent of Great Britain's action in favor of the United States.

The statement of a prominent British official quoted in the London dispatch of the Associated Press Tuesday regarding the alleged support by France of the Austrian proposal, is declared to be incorrect. France did not back up the proposal and the French ambassador in London confined himself to making an inquiry as to what view the British government took of the matter. France's attitude throughout was friendly to the United States, as well as to Spain, her ardent desire being to avert war. She took no initiative in any suggestion tending to put pressure on the United States, nor at any time encouraged Spain to resistance. Her influence was always directed, in the purview of the powers, to maintaining peace.

The exact value which should be placed on Great Britain's leanings towards the United States can be gauged, it is declared, by the fact that when war was declared Senor Gullon was furious, firstly, against Germany; secondly, against Russia, and only thirdly against Great Britain. His resentment against Germany was due to the latter having encouraged Spain to resist and then having abandoned her at the last moment.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 23.—The correspondent of the Associated Press here has obtained the following statement from the Russian foreign office regarding the announcement made in the British house of commons Monday concerning negotiations between the powers before and after the outbreak of the Spanish-American war and the assertions made by a British foreign official to a representative of the Associated Press on the same subject:

Statement From Russia.

"Russia has always been and is now extremely desirous of maintaining amicable relations with the United States. Russia never had any intention of participating in any collective step in the Spanish-American dispute which did not directly concern her. Nor did Russia receive any proposition having such action in view. Indeed, we received no information regarding Austria's alleged initiative or about an attempt on the part of any of the powers to interfere in the interest of Spain."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Travelers to California

Naturally desire to see the grandest and most impressive scenery en route. This you will do by selecting the Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western, "The Scenic Line of the World," and "The Great Salt Lake Route," in one or both directions, as this line has two separate routes across the Rocky mountains between Denver and Ogden. Tickets reading via this route are available either via its main line through the Royal George, Leadville, over Tennessee Pass, through the Canon of the Grand river and Glenwood Springs, or via the line over Marshall Pass and through the Black Canon of the Gunnison, thus enabling the traveler to use one of the above routes going and the other returning. Three splendidly equipped fast trains are operated to and from the Pacific coast, which carry through standard sleepers daily between Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco. Dining cars (service a la carte) on all through trains. If you contemplate such a trip, let us send you beautifully illustrated pamphlets, free. S. K. Hocper, G. P. & T. A., Denver, Col. 7-tf-3-tf

Effort is put forth in certain quar-
 commission has changed front and
 now favors the Panama route, where-
 as it formerly favored the Nicaragua.
 This is clear misrepresentation. The
 commission originally regarded the Panama route as the more feasible,
 but reported in favor of the other
 simply because the Panama company
 asked $100,000,000 for its holdings, and
 the Nicaragua canal would cost less than the Panama. Now that the price
 has been cut to $40,000,000 the commission presents the following strong
 reasons why the Panama would be
 cheapest and best: The Panama
 route is shorter by 134 miles. The
 time of canal passage by the Panama
 is shorter by 30 hours. The Panama
 costs $5,000,000 less to complete and
 $1,300,000 per year less to operate
 than the Nicaragua. The purchase
 price of the Panama includes a complete railway along its banks. None
 on the Nicaragua route. Two fine harbors are acquired with the Panama.
 Two would have to be made at great
 cost in Nicaragua. Panama is exempt
 from earthquakes; Nicaragua is in an earthquake region. Annual rainfall
 at Panama, 93 inches; at Nicaragua,
 256 inches.

The registration bills proposed by
 the Republican city committee of this
 city provides a simple and practical
 way of securing the benefits of registration in cities of the size of East
 Liverpool. It extends the provisions of the state laws relating to registration in second-class cities, making
 them applicable to all cities having
 the requisite population, the minimum
 of which remains to be fixed. It is argued that it would entail some expense to provide the requisite machinery and set it in operation. This
 is undeniably true; but it is equally
 true that good things are seldom to
 be had without paying for them. Trivial cost should not be suffered to
 stand in the way of any measure that will tend to promote and insure purity of elections. Registration rules, properly made and diligently enforced,
 would avoid dissatisfaction and trouble, and meet with the hearty approval of honest voters.

Down in New Jersey an ex-member
 of the legislature is befriending the
 mosquito, saying the insect's bite is a cure for rheumatism. Doubtless he
 has seen rheumatic persons and others
 move with uncommon haste after
 being attacked by the creature. But
 that does not prove his theory. They might act just the same if a bear had
 bitten them.

Platform pledges should be kept.
 Tax reform was promised in the Republican state platform, and Governor Nash's measures are generally conceded to meet the requirements. Legislators who desire to work in the people's interests should not suffer the
 politicians to bamboozle them into
 death.

Perry Belmont, who ran for congress in a New York district and was
 defeated, spent $15,000 in his campaign, while his successful opponent
 spent only $1,400. There is great satisfaction in this demonstration that
 congressional seats do not go to the
 highest bidder, even in a locality notorious for political corruption.

All European governments are en-
 deavoring to demonstrate that Uncle
 Sam is their great and good friend.
 It is pleasant to have them in that
 frame of mind.

It is said that the Four Hundred of

New York are making desperate attempts to learn how to say "Hoch!
 Heinrich Hohenzollern" just as if it
 came natural to them. Here is where Milwaukee can give them cards and
 spades and beat them without half
 trying.

The attempt to start the Ohio gubernatorial contest for 1903 before the
 spring primaries are over is a trifle
 premature. One political contest at a time is enough, even in this region of
 perpetual politics.

There will be no difficulty in secur-

 up here.

AT THE THEATER

When Mildred Holland appeared in this city last season presenting her powerful romantic drama, "The Power Behind the Throne," she created a most favorable impression. In response to the emphatic demands of patrons, the management of the Grand opera house has again booked Miss Holland and her strong supporting company for a return appearance on Friday evening, January 24. The act-

Mildred Holland

ress will again be seen in the role of
 "Aria" in "The Power Behind the Throne," a part which she has made famous. Her supporting company this season is even better than it was last year and Miss Holland herself, invigorated from a summer vacation
 in Europe, acts, if possible, with more fire and force than she has ever done before.

"Are You a Mason?" the latest and greatest comedy, adapted from the German by Leo Dietrichstein, which had such a successful run in New York, and all through the summer at Power's theater, Chicago, will be seen at the opera house January 27.
 The same identical company which presented "Because She Loved Him So" so charmingly last season has been retained and anybody in search of a delightful evening's enjoyment should go to see "Are You a Mason?"

POTTERY NEWS

Jiggermen's local No. 12 made a
 move at its meeting on Tuesday evening, which will likely be imitated by
 all other branches of the Brotherhood
 before the time for holding the next
 national convention. It is a well known fact that the position of delegate to national meetings has been
 less desirable on account of the expense attached to the trip. Those
 who have represented the various locals in past years have had reason
 to remember this, and a number of
 the active members of No. 12 have
 succeeded in having a new plan adopt-
 ed. It has been customary to pay $3
 per day and traveling expenses, No.
 12's representatives to the Trenton
 meeting will be paid $5 per day and
 mileage as before. Members of No.
 9 have taken up the subject and it is expected similar action will be taken
 there.

The two new kilns at the Dresden
 pottery will be ready for use by Saturday. One of the kilns is being placed and will be fired Saturday,
 while the other will be completed by
 that time. A number of bricklayers
 are employed on the latter, rushing
 their work as fast as possible, it being
 the desire of the firm to run their
 plant to its full capacity next Monday.
 Orders are coming in rapidly for this
 firm, and all departments will be pushed to the limit during the next
 few months.

Night kiln firemen are scarce in this city just now. A number of firms
 are in need of these workmen and it is almost impossible for such workmen to be secured. In some instances
 kilnmen who have had experience in
 this line of work are being pressed into service. These positions command good wages, and it is almost
 out of the question to secure competent workmen enough in this particular line.

George Horner, a kilnman at the Buckeye pottery, had a funny experience yesterday morning as he was preparing to come to work. Horner
 resides at Calcutta, and in taking his
 buggy from the barn yesterday morning, slipped and fell across the shafts
 of the buggy, breaking them. Another conveyance was secured and Horner came to town, being a few
 minutes late at work.

An innovation in hotel ware was placed before the buyers this month
 by the Dresden pottery, by offering
 them a seven-piece hotel toilet set.
 The first sets have been completed,
 and as the decorations are neat, the idea is sure to meet with favor.

Work in the clay department of the Union pottery will probably resume
 tomorrow. The new shafting that is to be placed in the jigger shop has
 been received, as has also a lot of new belting. The kilnmen will not likely
 begin work before next Monday.

Contrary to expectations no meeting of the board of directors of the East Liverpool Pottery company
 was held last evening, owing to the
 absence from the city of several directors. A meeting will be held either tonight or tomorrow evening.

Messrs. Kelley and McKelvey, who
 have been employed as kilnmen at
 the Ford City pottery, were in the
 city yesterday on their way to New Cumberland, where they have taken
 positions as kilnmen at the Chelsea.
 They will begin work at once.

C. C. Smith, one of the officials of
 No. 9, employed as a kilnman at the Vedrey pottery, will take a similar position on the glost bench at the Buckeye next week, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Thomas Pickall.

Statistician John T. Wood, of kiln-
 men's local No. 9, yesterday afternoon
 measured biscuit kiln No. 5 at Laugh-
 lin's No. 1, which has been in dispute
 for some time. A report will be made to No. 9 Friday evening.

Martin Wolf, who has been employed as a biscuit kilnman at the Goodwin pottery for several years,
 has taken a similar position at the
 old end of the K. T. & K. pottery.

A number of new bins have been
 placed in the biscuit ware room at
 the Smith & Phillips pottery. Carpenters have been working on the
 change for several days.

Kilnmen's local No. 9 will hold their
 regular meeting in Brotherhood hall
 tomorrow evening. It is announced
 that nothing but routine business is
 to be considered.

Thomas Pickall, who has been employed as a kilnman at the Buckeye
 pottery for several years, has taken a similar position at the Cartwright
 pottery.

Smith McDole, a sticker-up for the Jumbo jigger at the East Liverpool

pottery, was unable to work yesterday on account of illness.

Charles F. Goodwin, secretary of the Goodwin Pottery company, is ill at his home on Broadway with pneumonia.

"Chip" Gamble has taken a position as kilnman at the Dresden and commenced work yesterday.

John Kagel, a presser at the East Liverpool pottery, is ill at his home on Seventh street.

WELLSVILLE

WELLSVILLE PRIMARY

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE FIXES DATE FOR FEB. 15.

Rates Fixed for Candidates Likely to be at a Geo. Sum in the Treasury.

A republican primary election will be held in Wellsville on the afternoon of February 15 between the hours of 1 and 7 o'clock. This decision was reached at a meeting of the Republican central committee in city hall last evening. Of the 15 committeemen Messrs. MacKenzie, Taylor, Ferguson, Ralston, Martin, White, Burchard, Halliday, Duncan, Donley, Raleigh and Fogo were present.

The committeemen decided that the candidates for the several municipal offices shall be assessed as follows: Mayor, $20; solicitor, $10; treasurer, $15; water works trustees, $10; street commissioner, $10; councilmen, $1; school board, $1; cemetery trustee, $1; assessor, $3. It is probable that there will be at least five candidates for each office, and if so the committeemen will have in their treasury $355—more money than they have had at their command for years.

Secretary Taylor was authorized to have a statement published to the effect that all entries must be made by 8 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, February 8. The entries must be accompanied by the assessment money. Other minor business was transacted by the committeemen, after which they adjourned to meet February 10.

WAGES ADVANCED

GOOD NEWS FOR THE C. & P. SHOP EMPLOYEES.

New Scale of Wages Means From 10 to 65 Cents a Day More for Each Man.

The several hundred employees of the C. & P. company, working in the West End shops, were notified yesterday of a material advance in their wages. The laborers will each receive 10 cents more per day and the skilled workmen, according to ability, will receive from 10 cents to 65 cents more per day. The salaries of the office men will be raised nearly $15 per month and the foremen of the different departments will hereafter draw a stated salary.

The employees are much gratified over the advance, as it was entirely unlooked for. They account for it, judging that the company is in a very prosperous condition.

HORSES RAN AWAY

And a Heavily Loaded Wagon Passed Over William Russell's Legs.

William Russell, a driver for the Smith & McNicol Pottery company, was severely injured last evening. He was hauling clay from the depot when a stay chain worked loose. He was endeavoring to fasten it and was leaning over the front end of the wagon when the horses suddenly started, throwing him to the ground close to the heels of the horses.

The horses continued running and both the front and rear wheels passed over his legs. A crowd of people ran to his assistance, but they were not able to stop them. He was run over and he was run over again. It is strange how he escaped without broken legs, as the wagon and its contents weighed nearly 4,000 pounds.

UPWARD TURN OF PRICES.

Caused by Professional Operators in the Stock Market, Wednesday.

New York, Jan. 23.—The professional operators in the market made an upward turn of prices again Wednesday. The dullness of the market and the congestion of the scanty dealings into a few stocks clearly reflected the continued indifference of the outset public to the securities market and the abstention of the great banking interests which made the great bull markets of last year from any hand in the trading. Such narrow price movement as there was was pretty much wiped out in the closing dealings, and many stocks closed below Tuesday night. Metropolitan Street Railway was the central feature and moved up late in the day an extreme 3% on a volume of dealings very unusual for that stock. The gain on the day was 2%. Many rumors circulated to explain the movement, which were in general agreement as to a coming issue of stock with subscription rights to stockholders, but which varied greatly as to the use to be made of the proceeds of the stock sale. There was talk of a consolidation of all New York public utilities and of a centralization of the production of electric power for the benefit of all of them. The stock of other New York public utilities did not fully sympathize, and reacted sharply at the last. Advances of 5 points each in the Chicago and Northwestern stocks and 2% in Lackawanna were accompanied by rumors of a coming distribution of scrip. Sugar and Peoples Gas gained nearly a point at one time. This about exhausts the list of advances worthy of mention. The rain and snow in the winter wheat belt and the promised benefit to the crop were used by the traders as arguments for advancing railroad stocks. The character of a good part of the day's dealings was shown by the expressed expectations that the supreme court would clear up the Northern Securities question by a decision next Monday, which is merely the day set to hear arguments whether the proposed suit shall be entertained. There was recently some speculation in Erie shares, based on the assumption that the dividend on the first preferred was to be advanced to 4 per cent, but the conviction has been general for some weeks that the 3 per cent rate would not be changed, as proved to be the case Wednesday, with little effect on the stocks. The market closed dull and irregular.

The railroad bond market broadened out Wednesday, bringing forward many dormant mortgages into activity. The dealings in some of these, notably the Rock Island 4s and the Central of Georgia income bonds and consol 5s, were very heavy. There were advances ranging from 1 to 2% in the Rock Island 6s and 4s, the Oregon Short Line 6s, St. Louis and San Francisco 6s, New Jersey Central 5s, Peoria and Eastern incomes, Central of Georgia first, second and third incomes, the Chicago and Pacific division 6s, of the St. Paul and Texas and Pacific 4s. Total sales, par value, $4,620,000.

shall be had in accordance with the provisions of this supplemental election and other laws pertaining to registration in cities of the second class in said state; and the mode of conducting such elections in cities of the second class; and provided further that the registrations for the April elections be as provided in the general laws.

As was stated in the News Review several days ago the representatives from this county were loath to champion the act until such time as it was demonstrated that the people generally wanted registration. Owing to the additional expense involved, which will have to be borne by the community enjoying the system, it was thought advisable to first get the sentiment of the people upon the measure before taking it into the legislature. It will be noticed that in the bill proposed provision is made for the appointment of registration officers by the deputy supervisors of election of the county. The object is to do away with every item of expense possible, and by regulating the board in charge of the registration in the manner outlined, the plan will have been cheapened still more.

An effort was made to pass a motion permitting residents of the townships to vote at the precinct nearest their homes, but it failed, and all township voters will be required to deposit their ballots at the city hall.

A special from Columbus says: Representative Crist has been advised that the bill extending registration to the city of East Liverpool has been prepared by Prosecutor Jason H. Brookes. Mr. Crist has urged that it be placed in his hands as early as possible, so that he can introduce it before the calendar becomes congested, which condition is threatened. He is not apprehensive of its passage if it is introduced in proper time.

EXAMINE TRACTION INTERESTS.

Elkins-Widener Syndicate Has Eyes on Everett-Moore Car Properties.

Cleveland, Jan. 23.—Representatives of the Elkins-Widener syndicate have examined all the traction interests of the Everett-Moore syndicate, with the object in view of purchasing the extensive railway interests, including the properties in this city. It is said that the representatives of the Elkins-Widener syndicate are very well satisfied with the physical condition of the traction lines, and consider it a desirable investment.

It is now practically settled that either the Federal Telephone system or the entire traction system will be sold in a lump. The sale of either property will eliminate the necessity of selling the other. Even if it is necessary to include in the deal the sale of the Cleveland Electric Railway company the principal local street car system will be made a part of the Everett-Moore traction properties.

On both poop and prow she had figures of men and animals that were fully 18 feet high. She had 4,000 rowers, 400 cabin boys or servants, 2,320 marines to do duty on deck, besides being provided with immense stores of meat and provisions.

CHAPTER V. THE PATIENT AT ST. WINIFRED'S.

ON the way to St. Winifred's with Brenda Mr. Barnes and Mr. Haggerty exerted themselves to be entertaining. By way of opening a conversation and showing that personal interest which a lady always appreciates Mr. Barnes mentioned the singular circumstance that he happened to know a man who had seen Miss MacLane that afternoon. He wondered whether Miss MacLane could guess where it was that this man had seen her. Upon Brenda's acknowledging that she was unable to solve this riddle Mr. Barnes kindly gave her a clue.

"If you could remember where you were at precisely ten minutes to 3," he said, "why, that would settle it."

Brenda smiled at the great astuteness of Mr. Barnes, but she declined to be led into a review of her movements that afternoon. Mr. Haggerty then struck into the conversation with the remark that it was curious how people could forget where they had been, and he instanced the case of a young lady who had lost an excellent alibi in a criminal affair through the error of not taking the police into her confidence at an early stage of the proceedings, while the facts were fresh in her mind. Brenda suggested that perhaps the lady did not fully trust the police, whereupon Mr. Barnes asserted warmly that that was the greatest mistake possible to a human being.

At the hospital it became immediately evident that Barnes and Haggerty had encountered a mysterious and formidable obstacle. They were about to accompany Brenda into the reception room, and she had begun to fear that they might never leave her while she remained in the building, but for some inscrutable reason they vanished, and Brenda's last glimpse showed them obviously crestfallen.

She had been somewhat lightened in spirits by the absurd comedy played by these dull witted men. It had ended, however, and the real significance of the drama again asserted itself. The reception room of St. Winifred's is lofty and bare, and there was a chill air in it even on that sultry June evening. Brenda observed that the place inspired her two companions with a vague terror. The maid was seized with a visible trembling, and the stalwart James shifted his heavily shod feet upon the floor, arousing singularly loud echoes that seemed to affect him unpleasantly.

The attendant who had shown them in returned after some minutes' absence with two men, one of whom Brenda had seen in the hall as they entered. He was the typical hospital physician of the popular conception. Brenda noted only that he wore spectacles and that his upper lip was very thin and rigid. In his companion Brenda was rejoiced to recognize a young doctor of her acquaintance, Sumner Kendall. She advanced hastily, with extended hand.

"Dr. Kendall," she exclaimed, "I had no idea you were connected with St. Winifred's. I have come to see Miss Miller. Is she conscious? What has she said?"

The physician seemed to be laboring under considerable embarrassment. He took Brenda's hand with a quick, nervous movement, and he clasped it harder than the forms of polite society permit. But he did not meet the young lady's eye.

"Miss MacLane!" she cried in a weak voice.

"Our patient is conscious," he said. "She has an excellent chance of recovery. Indeed under ordinary circumstances there would be small cause for alarm. To our great surprise, we find that she does not know who inflicted the wound. It may be only a lapse of memory due to shock, but I myself fear that she will never be able to answer the question."

"She does not know?" echoed Brenda. "You must understand," said Kendall, "that the assailant stood behind her. He, whoever it may have been, is supposed to have entered the room while Miss Miller was out on the balcony. I have had the place accurately described to me. In the corner of the room near the eastern window there is quite a large closet. Perhaps you noticed it."

Brenda inclined her head. "The assassin may have hidden himself there," Kendall continued. "Miss Miller remembers stepping into the room through that eastern window, and she knows nothing of what happened between that moment and the time of her awakening here."

"She will live," said Brenda. "She will remember some day."

"She can never remember what she did not observe," replied Kendall. "It may be that she neither saw nor heard the assassin. As to the wound, I hardly know what to say. The knife entered between the first and second ribs and passed downward very close to the body wall. Ordinarily it would be almost impossible to inflict such a wound. The assassin must have been singularly ignorant of anatomy to strike downward at such a spot, for the chances were a thousand to one that the bony structure would protect the vital parts. The knife should have cleared the first rib and hit fairly against the second. It happens that Miss Miller received an injury on this precise spot years ago, as a result of which the first rib is somewhat depressed. Thus the murderer was favored by an extraordinary chance. His idea was, first, to escape being seen by her, and second, to strike at the front of the body while standing behind in order to avoid the blood that must follow the blow. Having struck, he had reached the heart, and only a miracle prevented. Our ambulance surgeon believed that the wall of the heart was punctured and that a clot of blood was stopping the wound, as happens once in a million times. That is not the case. Not only did the knife miss the heart, but it missed the arteries in a way that only divine Providence can account for. So the first effusion of blood was not followed by the fatal drain that might have been expected. Do I make myself clear?"

"I understand enough," said Brenda. "I know that she may recover, and I thank God with all my soul."

There was a pause, during which Kendall's embarrassment, that had been less noticeable while his mind was bent upon a description of Elsie's injury, once more asserted itself. Brenda observed that his face was flushed and his forehead moist, and she was puzzled.

"Have you told her that I am here?" she asked. "Does she wish to see me?"

"We have not mentioned it," he replied, "but you need have no hesitation. We have given her a very nice room," he hurried on. "You'll find that everything in the world is being done for her. Shall we go in?"

The other physician then came forward, and Brenda gave him her hand,

though Kendall, in the extremity of his embarrassment, forgot to utter the form of presentation.

A straight and long corridor, the longest, as it seemed to Brenda, that mortal architect had ever designed, led rearward to the part of the building in which Miss Miller had been sequestered. Kendall led the way, and his colleague walked behind. For the third time that day Brenda experienced the sensation of surrendering her volition. The hospital became a prison; she was being marched to some deep cell beyond the reach of rescue or the light of day. Then, in a moment, she saw Dr. Kendall open a door and step back that she might pass before him.

Brenda's first glance happened to fall directly upon the face of the patient, and she cannot truly be said to have seen anything else in the room. The bed was only an indistinct splash of white. The bare walls, the plainly curtained window, the nurse in profile, motionless as a figure on tapestry, entered into the feeling, but not into the view of the scene. She beheld only that sweet and sad little face, so pretty, so maidenly and tender. And the real essence of this despicable crime, the inconceivable inhumanity of it, seemed to speak straight to Brenda's heart in that language of nature which is without words.

Elsie's brown eyes opened wide. They had been half closed, and she had been looking at heaven knows what; nothing in that room surely, nothing that ever had been anywhere perhaps. They turned to Brenda with utter surprise.

"Miss MacLane!" she cried in a weak voice, but distinct as the tone of a little silver bell. "You have come to see me! How kind of you!" Then suddenly, "Why did you do it?"

Brenda sank upon her knees beside the bed and took Elsie's hand.

"It was an impulse—a mere impulse," she said; "but I am very glad I came. I am so sorry for you. I am a good nurse. I have been taught. Will you let me stay here with you until you are well?"

Two tears gathered in Elsie's eyes and glided slowly down her cheeks. Her lip quivered like a child's.

And then the tears came very fast.

CHAPTER VI.

AN ARGUMENT FOR THE DEFENSE.

WHEN one is in the valley of the shadow, age and experience may furnish many reasons for desiring to go farther in preference to returning. As a rule, however, these reasons are swallowed up in the instinct of living and in the interest one takes in one's own struggle with the dark angel. A physician will hear many people say that they do not wish to recover, but most of them will wait until after the danger is over before giving utterance to words which the supernal powers may take too seriously.

Dr. Kendall was not in the least prepared to hear such an expression from this particular patient. He would have said that she was one who enjoyed life, every minute of it. Certainly she was as full of natural vitality as a young fawn in the woods. Plainly Brenda was at least as much surprised as Kendall, and the physician awaited her response with critical interest. If she should ask an explanation or offer an argument, it would show that she had not the instinct of the nurse. It was in the nature of an examination, and Brenda passed it with great credit.

"If you will tell me I may stay," she said, "I will do something that will make you feel much better."

"You know that I want you to stay," said Elsie. "It was very, very good of you to come, and I thank you truly."

"Such being the case," replied Brenda, "I am going to fix your hair. One moment, while I make myself ready. And now," she added, "don't move; not a muscle. See, I can reach it without the slightest trouble."

And with cool and steady hands she arranged the brown masses in which there lurked a strange glow like red gold in the sun. It was cleverly done. Elsie felt the caressing hands, but they were so soft that not a tremor reached the wound. Dr. Kendall, observing closely, nodded his head as one who considers a question satisfactorily settled.

"Such beautiful hair!" said Brenda. "You must be very vain of it."

But Elsie averred that she did not care for dark hair; it was so common. She would much rather have Brenda's.

"The entente cordiale is now fully established," said Kendall. "Miss MacLane, the patient is in your hands. I shall expect her to be playing golf in about a week. It won't be necessary for you to assist me any further, Dr. Johnson," he continued, addressing his colleague. "I will join you in my room."

Dr. Johnson bowed and withdrew. Dr. Kendall took a seat by the bed, and without appearing to do anything particularly important he determined with great thoroughness the condition of his patient. Not all that he observed would be comprehensible by a layman. The most conspicuous feature in the case was the improvement of Elsie's spirits. She spoke cheerfully to Brenda and seemed to have acquired in so short a time a certain dependence upon her. Then, almost as she was speaking, her eyes closed, her hands upon the white coverlet relaxed, and she fell asleep.

Kendall and Brenda watched her in silence for a moment while the professional nurse, who had remained in attendance, adjusted the shades upon the electric lights.

"While she sleeps," whispered Brenda, "I would like to telephone to my father. Dr. Johnson told me that Mr. Alden is probably still held at the sta-

THE FOLLY OF BEING MONEY MAD

By MARIE CORELLI, the Novelist

MODERN education itself tends to cramp and check the growth of imaginative originality. The general tendency is unhappily toward the basest forms of materialism, and A LARGE MAJORITY OF PEOPLE APPEAR TO BE SMITTEN WITH A PARALYZING APATHY CONCERNING EVERYTHING BUT THE MAKING OF MONEY. That art is pursued with a horrible avidity, to the exclusion of many higher and nobler pursuits.

Yet it needs very little imagination to prophesy what the end of a nation is bound to be when once the unbridled fever of avarice sets in. History has chronicled the ruin of empires from this one cause alone over and over again for our warning.

NO KING, NO STATESMAN, CAN DO FOR A COUNTRY WHAT ITS ROMANTICISTS AND ITS POETS CAN DO.

For the sovereignty inspiring the imaginative soul is supreme and is far above all other earthly dominions as the fame of Homer is above the conquests of Alexander.

And when the last touch of idealistic fancy and poetic sentiment has been crushed out of us and the last dry husks of realism are left to feed swine with, then may we look for the end of everything that is worth cherishing and fighting for in our much abused civilization.

The chivalrous feeling of man toward woman is one of the good graces which are rapidly disappearing. Hospitality is another good grace which is also waning. The art of conversation is almost a lost art. People talk as they bicycle—at a rush. Elegant manners are also at a discount.

THE SCORCHING, STEAMING, SPASMODIC MOTORMAN ANIMAL DOES NOT INSPIRE REVERENCE; THE SMOKY, SLANGY, HORSY, BETTING WOMAN ANIMAL IS NOT A GRACEFUL OBJECT.

In the days of classic Greece and Rome men and women imagined themselves to be descended from the gods, and, however extravagant that idea, it was likely to breed more dignity and beauty of conduct than if they imagined themselves descended from apes.

The nation rounds itself into an ideal, as the clay forms itself into shape on the potter's wheel. It is well therefore to see that the ideal be pure and lofty and not a mere golden image like that set up by King Nebuchadnezzar, who ended his days, you will remember, by eating grass—and perhaps thistles.

tion. He must be or he would be here. My father must try to secure his release. By the way, of course Miss Miller asked for him?"

"For Mr. Alden? Yes," replied Kendall.

"What did you tell her?"

"We said that he had sent all sorts of kind messages and that he received constant reports from us, but that she must not ask to see him before tomorrow."

"Did she plead to see him at once?" asked Brenda.

Kendall hesitated for a moment while they were passing silently out of the room.

"Well?" rejoined Brenda. "Please proceed."

"I don't quite understand."

"You have something more to say."

"It occurred to me," said Kendall slowly, "that she exhibited less anxiety to see Mr. Alden than I should have expected."

This statement seemed to furnish Brenda with abundant food for thought. She said nothing as they traversed the long corridor, and Kendall also was silent. After Brenda had sent the message to her father she conferred with Kendall in regard to her remaining in the hospital as Elsie's nurse and then dispatched her maid under James' escort for such things as she would need.

A Famous London Tavern.

The Mermaid was the name of a famous London tavern frequented by noted literary men and actors during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. All the wit and talent of the time assembled there for convivial enjoyment. Authors have made it the scene of great mind combats between such men as Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, Beaumont, Fletcher, Selden, Carew, Donne and others of reverential memory. It was the gathering place of the celebrated Mermaid club, the origin of which is ascribed to Sir Walter Raleigh. The Mermaid tavern was located in Broad street and was handily reached from three thoroughfares, so that it has been often referred to in various ways. The Mermaid in Broad street, the Mermaid in Friday street and the Mermaid in Cheap street were, however, all one and the same. It was the nearest to Broad street. The Mermaid was destroyed in the great London fire. There were other Mermaid taverns, one in Cheapside and another in Cornhill, but they had no such associations as clung to that of Broad street.

Green Cheese.

The green color of certain kinds of Italian cheese is due to the milk having been kept standing in copper vessels. The milk takes up quantities of copper, and it is customary to estimate the degree of activity attained by the milk by noting the brightness of the highly polished metallic surface.

Young Old Men.

A writer in The Cornhill declares that "In the early part of last century a man was a man at twenty or so, a middle aged man at thirty and old at fifty. At the present time he is a boy up to about thirty-five, a young man up to fifty and is hardly regarded as old until he has exceeded David's maximum of life by six or seven years."

The Indian Child.
In tepee life the Indian child is unique. It is given nothing to play with except the toads that hop about the tepee doors. It has no playmates except those of its own relation, and it receives but few caresses from its parents. The squaw mother is in the habit of putting her baby to bed at dark—they sleep in little sacks—then she goes away to a dance or something of that nature, leaving the child to its own resources. If it cries, no one comes to soothe it. So crying has come to be almost unknown among these children.

VI.—The Deeper Phases of Fatigue.

THE deeper phases of fatigue are not in most cases simply a result of excessive work, and what is excessive work for one may be merely play for another. Given a well balanced, properly nourished, healthy individual, and it is marvelous to observe the intense and varied intellectual and emotional activities of which he is capable. Nothing that he can do in a normal environment has the effect of producing fatigue, for, like a compensating pendulum, with the normal fatigue of one set of organs or group of ideas and their consequent diminished activity, other capacities, including those devoted to elimination and repair, automatically take their place. Ultimately sound sleep ensues, and health and vigor are renewed.

Unfortunately for some individuals, the power of such natural recuperation is lessened. This is partly due to the fact that sleep, like other activities, requires the outlay of nervous energy. The circulation of the brain is changed and with it the distribution of the blood in other portions of the body. The large venous sinuses at the outlet of the brain are clogged with blood and press upon the tissues. The capillary circulation is on the whole diminished. Just the way this comes about is not so certain. We know that the activity of the brain at first increases the action of the heart, but, as Binet shows, if continued, decreases it. This tends to dam up blood in the nervous system and thus fill the cerebral sinuses and empty the arteries; but, whatever the starting point, it requires the action of the nervous centers devoted to the circulation. They must be "set" in a certain way and have the power to continue this "set" for a sufficient length of time.

In many cases sleep is cut short because these centers, found largely in the medulla, but also distributed throughout other portions of the nervous system, are themselves fatigued or weakened. The individual wakes up not perfectly restored. There has not been a sufficient accumulation of energy, and before the day is over the limit of normal fatigue will have been passed.

At this point two things may happen. The individual may feel sleepy and find himself refreshed if he takes a nap. A habit of this kind, exclusive of the periods of early childhood and of old age, destroys the natural rhythm of waking and rest, which is adjusted in normal individuals to the stimulus of day and the quiet of night. The individual is to some extent out of harmony with his environment. He is a less capable accumulator and producer of energy.

The other alternative is that he oversteps the limit of normal fatigue. The brain cells, which are not functioning easily, are stimulated in various ways, and instead of becoming tired the individual becomes excited. The way in which this comes about depends to some extent upon the structure of the brain. One part of this organ is capable of stirring up another part. An illustration of this may be seen in the following experiment: Not long ago I asked a lady to register the number of pounds she was able to squeeze on a dynamometer. After taking note of the amount I asked her to recite a piece of poetry, which she did with a good deal of spirit. I then asked her to squeeze again. She was able to exert a pressure of 20 pounds more than before.

While a certain amount of synergical action of this kind is only an evidence of a lively temperament and a properly working brain, too much of it comes from a condition of irritable nervous weakness or chronic fatigue. Here finds that such excessive reaction is most frequent in individuals suffering from neurasthenia, or hysteria. Clouston points out that this overexcitement, when in a social field, often called "keeping up," or will power, is an indication of a faulty brain.

Besides the excessive stirring up of one part of the brain by another, persons with tendencies to overfatigue frequently use material stimulants, such as alcohol, cocaine, opium, morphine, tobacco, tea and coffee. The two latter are often used to excess by children. These act in two ways. At first, but only for a short time, they call out more energy. Reaction time is lessened. After this initial effect reaction time is increased, although the individual is generally under the illusion that he is more energetic. As with other morbid influences, the finest reactions suffer first. The most delicate avenues of energy, which normally contribute the final control to the whole activity, are first impaired. As a result the coarser movements and expressions have fuller sway. The work accomplished is, however, actually less, as it is less perfectly directed.

The finest reactions suffer first in their sensitive as well as their motor aspects. Thus it comes that under the secondary effects of stimulants the individual is not conscious of fatigue. The capacity which should appreciate this delicately is benumbed, poisoned by the overwork due to the initial effects of stimulation and the presence of the innutritious material.

When the conditions of brain activity are defective from whatever cause, we observe the results of fatigue more quickly. Janet gives the case of a girl with whom there was no history of alcohol or drug poisoning. She would take a book and begin to read, succeeding very well for a couple of minutes. She would then complain that her eyes hurt her. She would try again, but could not see and felt as if she were in darkness. This blindness lasted for one or two minutes, when she could again read about as long as before. No defect was discovered in her eyes. The trouble was central, pertaining to the brain, and depended upon fatigue of the attention. This was shown by the fact that she could easily read aloud as long as she did not need to pay attention to what she read. Her eyes did not even become tired. She was, of course, not able to tell anything of what she had read.

Two particular aboula was not the only trouble with this girl. She fatigued easily in every direction requiring activity of the upper brain centers. Even when she did pay attention for a short time it was limited in amount or range. Certain sensations and even movements were constantly neglected. Whenever she attempted to "pay attention" there would be produced the most extraordinary grimaces, tics, convulsive jerks, etc., to which she was entirely oblivious at the time, and of which she had no remembrance afterward. As she increased her attention to the matter in hand she lost it with respect to these movements. Her ability to co-ordinate her sensations was thus less than with people in a normal condition. With school children the automatism, the moving of feet, knitting of eyebrows, twiddling with buttons, wriggling, etc., characteristic of them when reciting, are in many cases only less pronounced instances of a similar state of affairs.

In some cases these automatic or subconscious movements are capable of direction by some one else. A hospital interne concentrated his attention to such a degree when he was playing cards that, as his companions found, he could, without knowing it, repeat all sorts of words if they were said quietly and without attracting his attention. Another instance is that of a lady whose attention is engaged by conversation or a problem in mental arithmetic. A pen is slipped into her hand, which rests on a sheet of paper. A question is now whispered or spoken quietly in her ear, to which she is asked to write an answer. She does so, and does not know afterward that she has written or even that she was asked a question. The answers sometimes involve matters which she has forgotten when asked to recall by the ordinary processes of attention.

The order in which the personal perception is lessened, whether owing to fatigue or constitutional defect, is found to be in most cases inversely proportional to the importance of the sensation or other experience, as estimated by the individual concerned. Thus the left eye and the left side of the body generally become insensitive before the right. The sensations connected with defecation, e. g., are not felt to be important and are very early neglected in the downward path of fatigue. Insensitivity in this respect leads to constipation and all the evils which follow in its train. Dropping of or lessened sensitivity to sensations of taste and smell is also frequent and occurs on slight occasions. Following this, hunger sensations are neglected. When the personal perception of the individual is invaded by such lack of sensitivities, food becomes repulsive and starvation and denutrition ensue, resulting in some cases even in death. The food repulsions and partial anorexias, as well as the unnatural appetites for slate pencils, chalk, etc., of some children are slight manifestations of similar tendencies.

Sollier maintains with a great degree of probability that individuals suffering from a marked lessening of personal perception are in reality partly asleep. Only a certain number of the brain cells which should act in a healthy waking subject are in these cases called into play. This condition is frequently reversed at night, and the neurons which were asleep in the day are now awake. Such people sometimes lie all night with their eyes open or get

The Tariff Concessions She Implores, Writes Mr. Cleveland.

Every Patriotic Citizen Cannot but Recognize the Souce of the Opposition—Obligations Forcibly Defined by Roosevelt in His Message.

York, Pa., Jan. 23.—A. B. Farquhar, of this city, the head of the Farquhar agricultural works, and prominent in national Democratic affairs, has received a letter from ex-President Cleveland, in reply to one sent him by Mr. Farquhar relative to the relations of the United States with Cuba. It was dated Westland, Princeton, N. J., Jan. 21, and said in part:

"The arguments used in opposition to the tariff concessions she implores, based upon our material interests, are fallacious, mistaken and misleading, while their source and the agencies of their propagation and spread cannot fail to be recognized by every honest, patriotic citizen with shame and humiliation.

up and wander around, but know nothing of this when the daytime comes and may even say they have slept soundly. The normal monarchical constitution of the personal perception has become divided into two centers of perception, each of which is largely independent of the other. Sometimes it even happens that the less usual of these personal syntheses is the larger and more competent. Cases are on record where an individual has been placed in a constant state of somnambulism much to his advantage in his adjustment to the environment and his success in life.

The steps toward such abnormal conditions are usually indicated by an increasing liability to fatigue. Even with normal people overfatigue results in a lessened personal perception which differs only in degree and in a greater capacity to recover from the cases of hysteria we have just been considering. Even when nervous exhaustion is decidedly constitutional or hereditary overfatigue only aggravates the conditions. Children who suffer from a tendency in this direction should be recognized as early in life as possible. This is important both for their present work and their future prospects.

SHORT MANY THOUSANDS? Such a Report About a Packing Co. Official, Who Resigned.

Cincinnati, Jan. 23.—Sensational reports were published here of an alleged shortage in the books of Theodore Braemer, who resigned last Sunday his position as secretary and treasurer of the J. and F. Schroth Packing company, of this city. The story, as first published, alleged a shortage of from $160,000 to $400,000, extending over a period of 20 years, and claimed that Mr. Braemer had turned over all his property and chattels in trust, pending an examination of the books by experts.

Braemer denied that there was any defalcation, but admitted that he had turned $72,000 in personal property over to Harlan Cleveland, his attorney, and Joseph W. O'Hara, attorney for the Schroths company. While Braemer talked freely about the case, the Schroths refused to say anything, and the attorneys were also reticent.

Will Not Investigate Books.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The miners' investigating committee, it was thought last night, will probably be ready with its report this morning, the report to be followed by the election of officers. A member of the committee said last night that the committee had decided to investigate only the charges made on the floor of the convention against Mitchell and Wilson, with the evidence adduced in the convention, and would make no examination of the books of the order to ascertain what they showed as to the shortage of ex-Secretary-Treasurer Pearce. Patrick Dolan, of Pennsylvania, is a member of the committee.

Rev. Dwight B. Hervey Dead.

Mt. Vernon, O., Jan. 23.—The Rev. Dwight B. Hervey died here Tuesday. He was formerly president of Granville Female college, the Martinsburg academy and the Pennsylvania State Normal School. He had occupied Presbyterian pulpits in this city and Newark, and was recognized as a foremost educator. He was 66 years old.

The party was headed by General Superintendent Schoyer and Division Superintendent Scriven had charge of the train to Rochester. No stop was made at the depot.

TELEPHONE POLES

In Great Numbers Being Erected About the City—Difficult Work.

Innumerable poles are being erected by the Bell Telephone company which will hold the wires that will extend from the cable conduits. For several days a crew of men has been working under the direction of Philip Corbett, west of Market street. The poles are large in diameter, tall and substantial.

Holes that are being dug for them are six feet deep. The excavation is no easy thing to accomplish and two to three holes are all that one man can sink in a day, as there is so much gravel and rock. Frequently a hole has reached nearly the required depth when a gas, water pipe or sewer drain is encountered, whereupon the cavity has to be filled and another one dug.

Wherever an especially solid pole is needed it is put down about eight feet and tamped with cement. A team of horses raises the heavy sticks into position while steadied by workmen.

Practically completed is the swabbing out and smoothing of the ducts in the conduits. The cables will not be inserted until perhaps late in the spring or early summer, but it is the expectation of the Bell people to have their new copper system in local use by next autumn.

WILL NOT ENFORCE THE BRIDGE RULES

A NEW DECREE IS ISSUED

Believing fully in the old adage that "right wrongs no man," Mayor Davidson, who has always demonstrated since he assumed the duties of city executive that his court is one of justice at all times, issued the positive decree today that an exception is henceforth to be made of some cases that result from violations of the rules governing the Chester bridge.

Ever since the time that the bridge was first opened for public use there have been scores of complaints made to the mayor concerning the charges for toll and also because of alleged undue authority shown by those in charge of the bridge. On the other hand Supt. Paulley has made numerous complaints to the mayor because of alleged infractions of his code of rules, which have tended to harass the mayor to an intolerable point.

The mayor learns that very many persons who are compelled to come in contact with the toll collectors are making daily protests. Nobody objects to the price asked for foot passage, though it is much above that generally charged over the country, but the assessments made for vehicles have been causing complaint.

The matter of charges, however, is not governed by the mayor, though he is among the many who would like to see a reduction. The greatest fault he has to find is that concerning the stringent rules against fast driving. He does not believe that racing should be allowed, neither does he criticize efforts to hold fast drivers in check. But yet he believes there are excusable cases.

His new decree is that doctors and preachers will hereafter be exempt from sentence even if proven conclusively guilty of breaking the fast driving rules. In explaining his reasons for taking this action the mayor says that when either a doctor or minister is sent for it is most generally an urgent case that demands his presence.

"It seems to me that I would be doing a great injustice to fine a doctor for driving his horse over a bridge faster than a walk. Take, for instance, in the case of an accident where a man is badly injured and when medical or surgical aid must be had, the small space of a minute may mean life or death with the victim. Considering this fact doesn't it seem unreasonable to attempt to force the doctor who is called in such a case to hold his horse down to a walk while crossing the bridge and thus lose time of inestimable value?"

"It is nearly always necessary also for a clergyman to be present without the loss of a moment when he is called. Frequently his services are desired at a death bed, and it could easily be the case that the dying man or woman would pass away while the reverend gentleman was holding his horse down to regulation speed.

"Even if the minister is only wanted to officiate at a wedding, he should not be delayed. In such a case he should be rushed and not retarded. "Doctors and preachers will never be fined for fast driving in the mayor's court while I am in authority."

HIS NOSE BITTEN

Floyd Miller, the young son of Constable James Miller, was attacked on the street this morning while on the way to school and badly used up by a boy whose name is said to be Richards.

The boys were in a crowd last night and some trouble occurred between them. Richards sought revenge and lay in wait for Miller. Soon after the fight commenced the combatants clinched, and while thus close against his adversary, Richards with his teeth caught Miller by the nose. For a time the struggle was fierce and bloody, and when the two were separated Miller's nose was nearly torn from his face. It is probable he will be disfigured for life. Constable Miller proposes to prosecute his son's assailant to the fullest limit.
